DNR visits dump

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

City and Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) representatives braved the inclement weather Tuesday to check out the old dump site near Wick School in preparation for a possible $1 million environmental clean-up this winter.

City Emergency Management Director Margaret LeDuc revealed prior to the inspection that the "best time to do these massive cleanups is in the winter months, so that if there is a leak it can be easily contained."

Last week, it was reported at the city council meeting that Romulus was being asked by the DNR to fence in the old dump site to keep children and other people from walking into the contaminated areas.

City Community Development Director Jane Downing said that 200 old barrels of contaminated materials have already been spotted in the old dump area. She estimates that another 1,000 barrels may be buried below the surface.

Downing also has asked the Romulus City Council to plan a study session on the matter in the near future.

Assistant City Attorney Stuart Trager urged the city to find out definitely what needs to be fenced in at the dump and to "obtain in writing that the city is not responsible for the cost of the actual environmental cleanup"

Because the cost of the cleanup is so expensive, it was revealed that the cost actually will probably be paid for by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Trager also asked the city to check out if the cost of the fencing is reimbursable.

Downing said that already the DNR has found traces of lead, PCBs and various pharmaceuticals at the dump site.

While current fencing near the Wick Elementary School blocks direct passage of students to the area, the Nov. 1 field examination was to determine factors leading to the city fencing operation and traffic flow from and to the site by environmental waste haulers.

Downing had urged earlier that trucks carting the barrels away from the scene use Ecorse Road rather than Wick Road.

She felt such a traffic pattern would be safer for the Romulus community.

Some findings of the Nov. 1 field visit are expected to be revealed in the near future.

New post

When ground-breaking ceremonies were staged for the new Metro South Michigan State Police Post on Telegraph Road, near Brest, a restored 1937 State Police patrol car brought to the site caught the attention of Van Buren Township Public Safety Director Mark Perkins and Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jacokes (above). Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell exchanged comments with piper Alex Wilson, a captain in the Canton Police Department, after the ceremony. The new post, which is slated to open in six to nine months, will replace the Flat Rock Post. Troopers stationed at the new post will be responsible for all expressway traffic duty in Wayne County other than in Detroit. Its central location in Taylor, north of Eureka Road, was chosen to as a better base of operations for the responsibilities of the post, according to State Police officials.

EDS offers to drop its old hazardous plan

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

In a dramatic turn of events at the Oct. 27 zoning hearing, the attorney for Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) offered to cancel any plans of allowing hazardous liquids to be injected into the planned deep well.

Norm Hyman injected the offer midway through the second night of proceedings, stating the price (25 cents per gallon for non-hazardous liquids) would provide a healthy profit for EDS and its financial support team.

Hyman said EDS also would welcome Zoning Board of Appeals limitations including the unloading of only "18 to 20 trucks a day at the site, work limits of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, including guarantees of no weekend or night time deliveries."

Among the other limitations offered acceptable by Hyman were "only one truck would be unloaded at a time and any auxiliary well would only be used when the primary well is shut down for repairs."

Special City Attorney Steve Winter, hired for the environmental case, warned ZBA members to use "extreme caution" in considering such an EDS offer.

Meanwhile a member of the protesting group, Romulus Environmentalists Caring About People (RECAP), called out during the offer presentation "How about no well?"

The hearing that has attracted throngs of residents to the make-shift hearing site in the hallway of the 34th District Court will continue at 7:30 tonight.

EDS is seeking ZBA approval of operations at its Wahrman Road site, just off Grant Road, while the city is seeking a ZBA ruling that the well needs to be switched to a trucking zone since many trucks bearing the liquid chemicals will be passing over Romulus and adjoining neighboring town roads.

The hearing began Oct. 26 before a boisterous crowd of RECAP members, who flaunted their anti-well signs

Mayor's early well statements unveiled

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

As the opening Zoning Board of Appeals hearing began last week, Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) attorney Norman Hyman continued to hammer away at the claim that EDS was given a virtual green light in Romulus for three years to build its $6.1 million injection well.

To support that theme, Hyman quoted statements from Mayor Beverly McAnally offered at a council meeting of Dec. 10, 1990.

As a prelude to McAnally's statement that night almost four years ago, Councilman Junior Block (now ironically a ZBA member) asked McAnally, "Mayor, if I may, you've had this thing before you. What's your opinion?"

McAnally replied, "Since I don't have a vote, I really appreciate your bringing me into it. The fact of the matter is, it's kind of interesting when you look back on the evening's events, because I really doubt that you'll be injecting anything as hazardous as gasoline into your well."

"You're right," said Bob Ryan, a planned well co-owner.

McAnally continued, "As we sat here tonight and didn't bat an eye, an approved a gas station, and didn't raise a question. And I'm not saying you shouldn't have.

"But, you see, what we're dealing with here is something that we don't understand fully. And because we don't fully understand, we're afraid of it," the mayor said.

"And I think sometimes we have to let our good sense prevail," McAnally said, "I've had a couple calls in our audience participation this evening and I'd like to say to our citizens.

"I really appreciate knowing you are out there. One of the callers has indicated that she is opposed to the well. But the interesting part is her narrative. She took her sump pump in for repair and was told that the ground water had eaten away the inside of the pump," McAnally said.

The woman had lived in Romulus for 11 years, the mayor said, and her pump was two years old and the family was on its fourth pump.

"Now that tells me, the surface water is so polluted where this lady lives that it's corroding and ruining the pump and plumbing on her sump pump," she said. "And, actually, she should be turning around and saying 'I'm in favor of this, we've got to get this stuff out of the ground water. We're eating it, drinking it. It's becoming part of our tissue, because we do not have an adequate way to dispose of it.'"

McAnally then said, "I think we have a human responsibility to do something, we have a social responsibility to do something. And I think the idea of the city having monitoring authority is a good one."

The mayor concluded that night saying, "I would prefer to be in control of this kind of situation, rather than to abdicate that authority to some other entity. I'd rather be involved in the solution than be part of the problem."

Special City Attorney Steven Winter offered no rebuttal statement or questions following the reading of the statement.

Councilman's wife joins battle

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A third party has entered the Councilman Jimmie Raspberry-citizen Gwen Sibert battle.

That third party happens to be Raspberry's wife, Wanda, who said in a hand-written statement she feels she must now "roll up my sleeves and speak out."

The above mentioned battle stems from Raspberry's purchase of a stripped-out home formerly owned by Best Buy Corp., a firm that listed Douglas Wicklund as one of its principal leaders.

Wicklund is now the 100 percent owner of Environmental Disposal Services. EDS is currently involved in an on-going legal battle with the city of Romulus.

Sibert said she could only find one city permit listed for Raspberry in connection with the home.

Raspberry claims to have spent $30,000 totally on the home to date and says he has also shown his site plans for the home to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

> When it comes to an invasion of our privacy, then the ball game gets turned over to Wanda Raspberry. Furthermore, to put it more mildly, it is none of your business and continues to be none of your business.

In her written statement, Wanda Raspberry said, "When it comes to political affairs, city issues and other aspects of politics, it becomes Jimmie Raspberry's ball game."

"When it comes to an invasion of our privacy, then the ball game gets turned over to Wanda Raspberry," the councilman's wife wrote.

She directed her comments to Sibert, saying, "Anyone who knows about city permits, knows the persons hired to do the jobs are the persons who obtain the permits.

"Furthermore, to put it more mildly, it is none of your business and continues to be none of your business," her statement continued.

At a recent pair of council meetings, Raspberry had amplified that statement by tell-

Board appoints administrator despite budget cuts

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Despite concerns over the $1.2 million deficit, the majority of Wayne- Westland School board members voted to approve the appointment of an administrator to employee services.

With a 4-2 vote, board trustees Francis Winter and Board Vice President Richard LeBlanc were opposed to the appointment. Board Secretary Vicki Welty was absent.

"I would like to thank the board for what appears to be an unpopular position," Board President Mathew McCusker said.

Wayne-Westland Education Association (WWEA) Vice President Bill Middel was appointed to the position of executive director of employee services, previously held by Dan Slee, the district's current assistant superintendent of employee services.

Slee, who was appointed to replace retiring assistant superintendent Bill Taylor, has been doing both jobs with the help of his staff since July 1.

Others, however, did not find the appointment to be warranted with the current financial situation.

> - Mathew McCusker

"In light of the fact we're in strict budget constraints now and we're asking students to walk to school and other people to carry any additional load, I can't support this," Winter said.

Middel has been a teacher with the district for the past 20 years, spending 10 years at Edison Elementary and another 10 at the junior high schools. He has coached students in junior and senior high school. Middel will fill the position Oct. 31 with a starting salary of $58,524, a salary increase of $3,129 over his current position.

Wayne police voice complaints against District Court judge

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

As the race for the 29th District Court seat continues to heat up, a group of local police officers decided it was time to explain their reasonings for not supporting incumbent Judge Carolyn Archbold.

This is the first time the Wayne Police Officers Association/Wayne Command Officers Association has approached the media with complaints of a lack of communication between the court and the Wayne Police Department.

The differences between the two legal departments have existed for at least six years, according to Wayne police Lt. Dan Randall.

"We're sick and tired of being treated as second-class citizens in the courtroom," said Randall who is the president of the Wayne Police Officers Association. "We've had problems for the last six years with Judge Archbold. We are backing Bill Necker in the hopes that we will have a better rapport in our court as in many other communities."

During an interview with Archbold the week of Oct. 20, the Michigan Community Newspapers addressed the issue of any problems existing with the police officers and the court. Archbold said the Wayne Police Department had not vocalized the problems to her, and she was willing to talk about them but was not given the opportunity.

Wayne police Lt. Keith Thomas, however, said that the patrolmen and the judge had a meeting four years ago to discuss various complaints, but they were not taken seriously.

"We think there is a need for drastic changes in the court," said Thomas who is the vice president of the Wayne Police Officers Association. "There is no rapport whatsoever between the police and the court."

There are five main issues the police addressed as complaints against the judge. The first involves dismissing a case because an officer wasn't able to appear on time due to an alarm at a home he had to check.

"We had an instance where a patrolman was suppose to be in court, but he was notified of a silent alarm at a home and went to check it out," Thomas said. "Because of that, he had to be late for the court appearance. The judge dismissed the case because the officer was not present.

"We feel this is unfair because there are many times when attorneys are late from half an hour to two hours, and the case is held until the attorney appears. It's not as if the individual was late intentionally. He was on the job."

The Wayne officers also stated that if an individual runs a red light in Wayne, the person allegedly will almost always get away with it in court.

"The judge rules that if you can't see the red light, then you don't know it is a red light," Thomas said. "So every time we give a ticket to someone who goes through a red light, they will most likely walk."

The third main complaint centers around the misuse of taxpayers money by not accepting guilty pleas from individuals with a suspended license.

Keith said the judge will not accept guilty pleas on a suspended license and almost always gives a personal bond so the individual walks.

"There was an instance where an individual had a suspended license and 10 ticket violations," Keith said. "When he appeared in court, he pleads guilty. The judge said she would not accept his guilty plea and went further telling him that if she did, he would get points on his record.

> We're sick and tired of being treated as a second-class citizens in the courtroom.
> - Lt. Dan Randall

"She gave him the chance to pay his tickets and come back so he wouldn't get points."

Both Keith and Randall also noted that there is no respect for officers who work the midnight shift and are not given the courtesy to be first on the list for court proceedings the next morning.

"It's routine that an officer could be scheduled to be in court for his cases two times a day," Keith said. "What happens though is you get an officer working the midnight shift, and they end up sometimes being scheduled three times a day in court. They never get a chance to go home to rest or be with their families."

The issuance of personal bonds frequently is another concern of the Wayne officers. A personal bond means that the individual can walk, and if they don't show up to their next court appearance, they have to pay the bond.

"The defendants put up no money with a personal bond as long as they show up to their next court date," Keith said. "Once they forfeit, however, they shouldn't get another chance for another personal bond, but it has happened."

Keith said that an individual was released on a personal bond and fled. He never showed up for the next court appearance.

"Ypsilanti police picked him up and called us," Keith said. "No police department delivers defendants to other police departments so we had to pick the individual up and take him back to court. Once again, this costs the taxpayers money.

"When the individual appeared in court, he was given another personal bond. The judge seems to be misusing this tool."

Keith and Randall also said that the judge allegedly told officers that if they are hit or assaulted during an arrest, it is just part of their job.

"If we have an officer who is hit, and we charge the individual with assault, it will be dismissed," Randall said. "The judge said that it's part of our job. But we're citizens just like everyone else, and we do have rights."

Randall said instead of the judge vocalizing her problems in the courtroom about the police, the Wayne Police Officers Association would appreciate her addressing the concerns with them behind closed doors.

"There's just no respect there," Randall said. "We heard the other day Lt. Mel Drews was in the courtroom, and she pointed at him and said 'All the problems in the community start with the people across the court driveway, meaning the police department which is next door."

Randall said the Wayne Police Officers Association knows that Necker will not agree with the police all the time, but Necker has stated that his first concern if elected to the 29th District seat is to open a line of communication between the Wayne Police Department and the court.

Voter turnout expected to be high

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

General election day is fast approaching and local voter turnout is expected to be six-percent higher for this governor's race than it was four years ago, according to Westland City Clerk Diane Fritz.

Fritz anticipates a 45 percent voter turnout for the Nov. 8 general election with Gov. John Engler facing off against State Senator Howard Wolpe.

Fritz attributes the expected high turnout to a significant increase in absentee ballots. In 1990, some 2,600 absentee ballots were requested. This year, some 4,000 ballots were requested as of Monday.

The governor's race is just one of several local races underway including a two and six-year term for 18th District judge, 18th District State Representative, 8th District State Senate and 13th Congressional District. However, candidates don't seem to be the major consideration of voters, acccording to Fritz.

"The party races are the issue," Fritz said.

Not too many Westland residents have discussed the four ballot proposals being considered -- A, B, C and P, according to Fritz.

Proposal A is to convene a constitutional convention for the purpose of drafting a general revision of the state constitution.

The emphasis of Proposal B is to limit criminal appeals by restricting criminals who plead guilty or nolo contendre (no contest) from appealing their convictions.

Proposal C concerns reduction of state auto insurance rates by placing limits on personal injury insurance, limiting the right to sue, and allowing rate reductions for accident-free drivers.

Proposal P is geared to establish a Michigan State Parks Endowment Fund, increase the maximum allowable amount of funds in the Michigan Natural Resources trust fund and eliminate the diversion of dedicated revenue from the Michigan Natural Resources trust fund.

Long-time employees honored

Hudson's long-service employees were recently recognized at the 25th Annual Year Club banquet, honoring employees that have performed 25 years or more of service for the company.

Hudson President Dennis Toffolo was pleased to announce the addition of 80 members into this group of individuals that have been part of the Hudson's team from 25 to 52 years. Westland resident Mary Ann Gaines was one of the inductees, along with Toffolo and Store Group Vice President Carol Kieffer-Dowling.

"Our 25 Year Club now boasts a membership of about 800 people. It is truly a reflection of the dedication and commitment our employees have to their co-workers and customers," Toffolo said.

Guests enjoyed dinner and entertainment by The Drifters as well as gifts.

Romulus seaman completes training

Navy Seaman Recruit Dennis W. Tessin, a 1991 Romulus High School graduate, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command of Great Lakes, Ill.

During the training cycle, recruits were taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of 85 Navy occupational fields.

Church bazaar planned Friday

The annual Christmas luncheon and bazaar featuring holiday crafts will be offered Friday at the Community United Methodist Church.

The luncheon of hot chicken salads will be conducted from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will cost $6 per person. Carry outs are available.

The bazaar will be offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and will include Christmas crafts, baked goods and candy.

The church is located at Olive and Bibbins Streets in Romulus. Further information can be obtained by calling 941-0736.

City workers cited by council

Members of the Romulus Department of Public Works were cited last week by the Romulus City Council for "their outstanding work in maintaining the Romulus City Cemetery and Shook Road area."

The resolution was offered by Councilman Ellis Pennington.

Romulus trucker given honor

Romulus truck driver Ray Goss, who has been riding over the highways for the past 35 years, was inducted into the Million Mile Club by Ranger Transportation Inc. of Jacksonville, Fla.

Goss began his career in Romulus for Blazer Truck Lines. He has been a Ranger contractor for 10 years and has driven more than one million safe miles (that is equivalent to 357 trips from New York City to Los Angeles).

"Ray is a true professional," Ranger President and CEO Jim Shepherd states. "He sets the standard for safety and excellence in this industry."

Goss was honored recently at an awards banquet in Jacksonville, Fla.

Ground breaking is postponed

The planned fall ground breaking for the Romulus Salvation Army new Adult Rehabilitation Center has been delayed until next year.

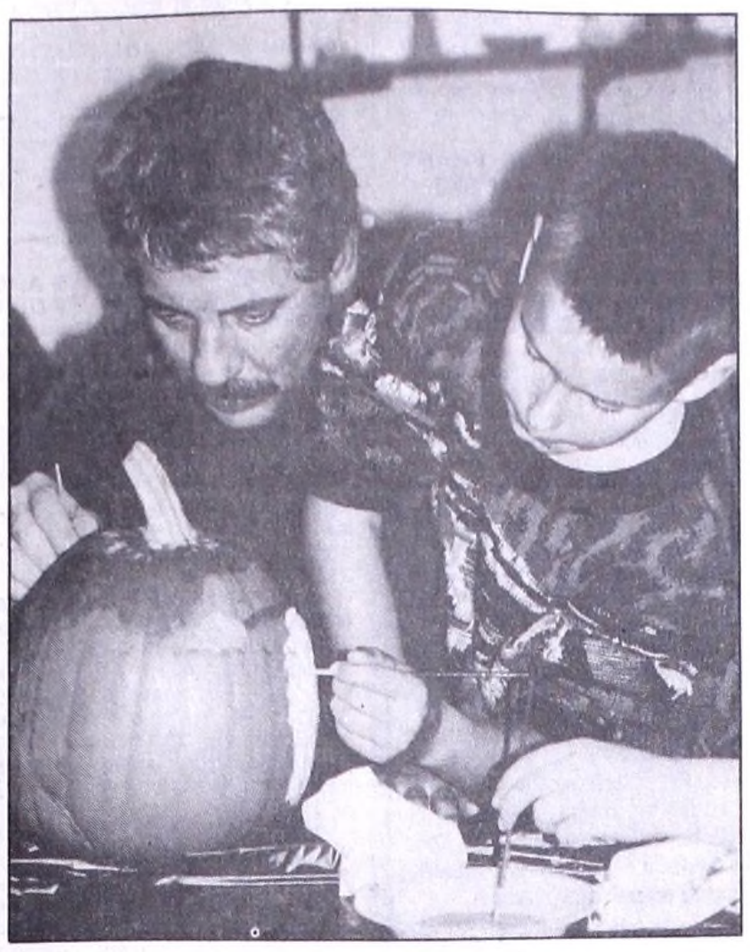

Capt. Roger Senn, center commander, reported that the original architect's plans for the new rehabilitation, thrift store and distribution facility came in well over budget.

Senn said it will take approximately three months to alter the building plans for the planned new facilities at Van Born and Middlebelt Roads and then to seek bids for the construction.

The groundbreaking appears to be delayed until late next winter or early spring, he said.

In the mean time, the site needs to be cleared of discarded vehicle tires, abandoned cars and concrete slabs, Senn revealed.

The 25-year-old current Salvation Army structures are planned for demolition so that Detroit Metropolitan Airport can be expanded.

Kiwanis pancake sale on Saturday

The annual Romulus Kiwanis Club pancake breakfast sale will be offered Saturday at the Romulus Progressive Hall.

New Kiwanis President Helen Hay said the all-you-can-eat servings will begin at 7 a.m. and continue through 2 p.m. The hall is located at 11580 Ozga Road at Five Corners in Romulus.

The servings will include scrambled eggs, sausage, juice and coffee.

Club Secretary Roger Kadau urges area residents to support the pancake breakfast and in turn aid the Motts Children's Hospital, the Kiwanis local dental program for underprivileged children, Romulus senior citizens and scholarship recognition programs at the high school.

Past President James Napiorkowski, who is in charge of ticket sales, said the cost is $3 for senior citizens, $3.50 for adults; and $2 for children. Children under 5 will be served free.

Hay revealed the first Kiwanis pancake breakfast was served in October 1957 at the Romulus Theatre Building, now known as the Porter Building on Main Street.

EDS

before ZBA board members and cable television cameras.

Hyman initially said EDS would show Mayor Beverly McAnally and city leaders encouraged the well operations for several years, prior to a major turn around just before the 1993 council election.

Hyman said EDS would claim a major hardship, since no one in city government verbally opposed creation of the 4,500 -foot deep well on the property of John Ryznar prior to its creation.

Winter on the other hand said he would show that EDS "misrepresented to the city that it (Romulus) had no regulatory power in this matter." He also said he would show there is no financial hardship to EDS.

Hyman, in addition to reading statements from McAnally at a 1990 council session, also read portions of depositions from former Community Development Director Dennis Oakes and current Building, Safety Director David Paul.

Winter said last Thursday night he would delay responding to such deposition statements at that time.

ZBA chairman Norman McLenon, who scolded RECAP members at times for inappropriate actions, thanked them for their generally good behavior throughout the two-night proceedings.

McLenon said RECAP members may get a chance to ask questions tonight, but urged the group not to be repetitive in their interrogations.

How long the series of zoning meetings will continue will be determined a great deal by what is accomplished tonight, observers said.

If EDS concludes its application statements tonight, possibly only one more meeting may be required.

Goodfellows prepare for fund-raising event

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Local firefighters, police officers and other Goodfellow members will distribute the holiday presents to local families during a period from Dec. 19 to 22.

Romulus Goodfellows are pulling up their collective sleeves today as they begin planning to aid area families this coming holiday season.

Jill Applebee, Goodfellows co-chairperson, said more than 400 local families were aided by the Goodfellows program last year.

Applications for Goodfellow donations will begin being accepted on Nov. 21 at Fire Station 4 at 28777 Eureka Road. Families can fill out the applications from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Applebee said.

Special editions of the Romulus Roman newspaper will be offered for sale during the weekend of Dec. 2 and 3, she said.

Goodfellow representatives will soon be seeking donations for local needy families, including canned or boxed prepared foods, new games and toys.

Local firefighters, police officers and other Goodfellow members will distribute the holiday presents to local families during a period from Dec. 19 to 22.

In the past two years, an anonymous donor has helped Santa Claus and the Goodfellows by contributed massive amounts of free toys and games for local youngsters. No word has been released yet if such a gift is expected this year.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Applebee at 941- 8585.

ing Sibert, "It is none of your damn business."

The extra four letter word offered by Raspberry each time brought gaveling from acting Mayor pro tem Randy Gear, who complained about the excessive language style.

Wanda Raspberry also complained that Sibert had "invaded" the privacy of her home by disrespectfully calling her husband asking for a meeting "somewhere, someplace, sometime."

She complained that Sibert was given a chance to "confer with me about our house, permits, etc. But you never did."

Wanda Raspberry said she questions Sibert's motives, asking if they are a "personal vendetta rather than a political issue."

She claims no apologies are forthcoming from her and urges Sibert to exit the field for politics.

"I personally feel you are not fit for the political ball game, because you keep standing way out in left field...and keep missing sight of the ball each time," Wanda Raspberry said.

Sibert, when contacted Tuesday morning, said, "Jimmie said he would have his wife call me (at the first council meeting). She never has called."

She also denied ever calling the Raspberry household and asking to meet with the councilman "somewhere." Sibert suggested that maybe Wanda Raspberry should take a polygraph test to see who is telling the truth.

She said the only time she has talked to the veteran councilman was early in her campaign for city council, and he was rather supportive at that time."

"I have no personal battle here, I feel the city should follow up on the matter and not pass the wrong signal to the public," Sibert said.

Coach is arresting figure

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Romulus Police Officer Matt Robertson loves football. He also cares about the youth of today.

Thus, Robertson felt it was only natural that he combine his two prime interests and offer Romulus High School his services as assistant junior varsity (JV) football coach this year.

The 26-year-old coach began working with the freshman and sophomore athletes early last summer, teaching them skills needed in weight lifting and specialty positioning for quarterbacks, running backs and line backs.

"We started out slow this year as most of the youth never played together before. But by the end of the season we were a pretty well organized unit," Robertson said.

"We beat the Milan High school JV by a 36-34 score during Homecoming Week with stellar last minute defense. Then we won over Willow Run High School 46-6 and concluded with a 22-18 loss to highly touted Belleville," he said.

The Romulus JV were actually leading Belleville until the final minutes of the game, Robertson explained, when Belleville exploded with a late touchdown and two point play.

Robertson said working with the young football players takes a lot of time (about 15 hours a week), but it relaxes him on the job knowing that he has helped make an impact in the community he serves.

While working in his Romulus Police blues, Robertson said, he tries to impress neighborhood parents about how important it is to keep open communication with their kids.

"In those neighborhood situations I try to work through the parents, as they are the long term participants in the family," Robertson said. Just as in sports, good communications are critical to having quality family life.

"In about six weeks, we'll have the beginnings of next year's team back in the weight room again," Robertson said, "as our schedule will become much tougher next year as we enter the red division of the Mega Conference. Thus we'll be playing against teams like Belleville, Woodhaven and Fordson."

The Romulus Junior High football team did well this year, Robertson said, so we expect to have some quality freshmen trying out for the 1995 squad.

On the practice field Robertson slips on his Dallas Cowboy sweatshirt. He is such a devout Cowboy fan, Robertson said, his police peers have dubbed him "Mr. Cowboy."

It is not too far-fetched to believe that in coming years as the spirit between Robertson and his young players grows in intensity, that on Thursdays (game day) during the high school season that nickname may be switched to "Mr. Eagles!"

Griffin challenges Bennett for state post

8th District State Senate-4-year term/$47,723 salary

Charles Travis Griffin (D-Westland) and Loren N. Bennett (R-Canton) are facing off for the 8th District State Senate seat.

Charles Travis Griffin is a long-time Westland resident. He said he decided to seek this office because his background in education has been in government.

"I have taught government and practical government at the local level for more than 20 years," Griffin said. "It has always been my dream to become a legislator on the state level. I believe that my background and experience in government will be invaluable as a member of the state senate. This experience will allow me to be an effective legislator."

Griffin said it is essential to find a cost effective way to build and equip state prisons that can handle the overcrowding prison population so that the citizens of Michigan can be protected from violent criminals.

Griffin is presently a Westland city councilman.

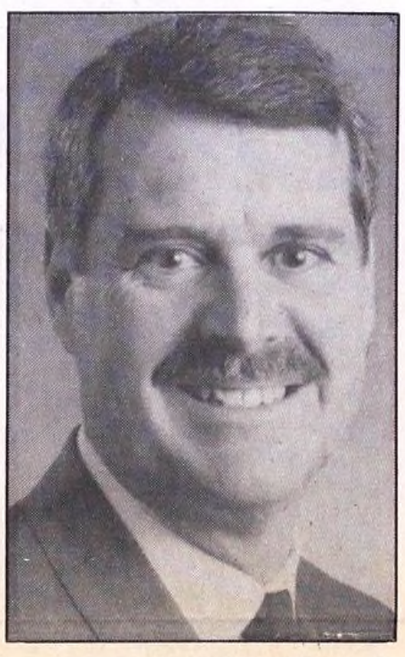

Loren N. Bennett is presently the Canton Township clerk. The life-long Wayne County resident believes the problems of the state lie in a government that hopes to improve the future through costly programs "that have long since stopped making sense."

"Simply put, I believe that Michigan needs less government, and we get that by using more common sense," Bennett said. "While I have an enormous amount of respect and admiration for Sen. William Faust, I intend to be a different kind of senator.

"I will oppose tax increases and support budgets which trim fat and reduce spending. There will be no one in the State Senate who will be more frugal with the taxpayers' money than me."

Rivers takes on Schall for 13th District

13th District U.S. Representative-2-year-term/$133,600 salary

Lynn Rivers (D-Ann Arbor) and John Schall (R-Ann Arbor) are vying for the 13th District U.S. Representative seat.

Lynn Rivers is currently the Michigan State Legislator. She attended the University of Michigan and Wayne State Law School. Rivers earned a bachelor of arts and juris doctorate degree.

> My first act as a state legislator was to vote against a pay raise for the state legislators.
> - Lynn Rivers

She feels her legislative background and record of accessibility, commitment and service to the community make her uniquely qualified for the post.

"My first act as a state legislator was to vote against a pay raise for the state legislators," Rivers said. "When the bill passed, I refused to accept the extra money in my paycheck. I continue to return it each month."

Rivers main concerns are health care reform, crime and education.

John Schall would like the opportunity to serve his constituents in the 13th Congressional District.

Shall, a Bush administration official and former White House staff member, focused his 10 years in government on helping to find solutions to the problems Americans face in their daily lives.

> Our campaign is built on a strong grass-roots base of activists and supporters...
> - John Schall

He has led efforts in health care reform, welfare reform, job training and education.

"Our campaign is built on a strong grass-roots base of activists and supporters, many of whom believe that the working people of our community need new leadership," Shall said.

Edward Juarez

Kelly, Juarez bid for 17th District seat

17th District State Representative-2-year term/$47,723 salary

Tom Kelly (D-Wayne) and Edward Juarez (R-Garden City) will go head to head at the Nov. 8 general election for the 17th District State Representative seat.

Long-time Wayne resident Tom Kelly would like his constituents to know that he is the ideal candidate for the state representative seat in the 17th District because he has a great deal of political experience.

Kelly, a Democrat, has been a Wayne councilman for 12 years. He is currently the chief of staff for Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann.

As the chief of staff, Kelly is responsible for the operation of the commission office, responding to constituent concerns, committee meetings and preparing reports.

The various boards and commissions Kelly has served on include: Nankin Transit Commission-12 years; Southeast Michigan Council of Government (SEMCOG)-10 years; Community Development Block Grant Advisory Council-seven years; Citizens Against Crime-five years; and Knights of Columbus-Notre Dame Council.

Edward Juarez is a training supervisor at Detroit Edison. He received associate and bachelor degrees from Madonna University and a bachelor's, master's and associate's degree from the University of Detroit.

Formerly employed at the Criminal Justice Institute and City of Inkster, Juarez said his recent experience as a Garden City councilman and as a Michigan Correctional Officers Training Commissioner, as well as his ability to learn quickly and take action, qualify him for the elected position.

Pitoniak, Slaven seek state representative post

22nd State Representative-2-year term/$47,723 salary

Incumbent 22nd State Representative Gregory Pitoniak (D-Taylor) is seeking re-election to another term as Romulus-Taylor representative to the state House of Representatives.

Pitoniak is currently finishing his first term as Romulus representative, but served two prior terms in the Michigan House prior to redistricting in 1991.

He points with pride to his effort to have commercial liquid injection wells banned from Michigan.

Pitoniak feels also that re-election this year will put him in a strong position for committee chairmanship, if the Democrats control the lower legislative chamber in 1995.

Challenger Joseph Slaven, 24, a Taylor Republican, is seeking to unseat Pitoniak.

> Pitoniak is currently finishing his first term as Romulus representative...

Slaven, a recent graduate of the University of Michigan, is pressing family values as well as Ross Perot governmental concepts in his first bid for office.

Win or lose next week, Slaven, a father of one young son, Tyler, said he plans to run again in two years. Slaven said he wants to change governmental procedures, so that state leaders won't have their hands on my son's wallet when he grows up.

Slaven's heaviest hit against Pitoniak is that he (unlike the current state representative) will vote against future legislative pay hikes.

DeHart, Novak vie for 18th District post

18th District State Representative-2-year-term/$47,723

Eileen DeHart (D-Westland) and Michael Novak (R-Westland) are facing off for a two-year term as 18th District State Representative.

DeHart is a long-time Westland political activist who was assistant to retiring State Representative Justine Barns for the past seven years and believes that experience best qualifies her for the position.

"I think I have the experience and know how to represent the city of Westland in Lansing," DeHart said.

DeHart said Westland is "losing a lot of clout" with the retirement of Barns following her sixth term in office, which will expire Dec. 31.

"I think I can fill that gap," DeHart said.

The candidate, a Westland resident of 28 years, became a state legislative secretary in 1987 and a state aide in 1988.

Novak is employed as a police officer with the City of Livonia and is a former employee of Wayne County Sheriff's Department and interned at Dearborn Police Department.

The 27-year-old said his experience as a police officer and part-time instructor at a police acadmey has given him the understanding needed to streamline the criminal justice system.

"I feel that we need to revise the laws we have on books now and not create new laws. I can represent the people of the 18th District to the best of my ability, with honesty, integrity and hard work," Novak said.

Incumbent Kay Beard (D-Westland) is running for re-election to another two-year term as 12th District County Commissioner against Bhagwan Dashairya (R-Westland).

Beard is vice chair of the Wayne County Commission and has been a County Commissioner for more than 15 years since her appointment in 1978.

A 40-year resident of the district, Beard represents approximately 155,000 constituents in Garden City, Inkster and Westland and calls herself the only commissioner with real longevity and a historical prospective of the last 16 years.

Dashairya is employed at East Engineering Corporation and has been a member of the Westland Economic Development Commission since 1991. He is also the president of the Council of Asian Indian Organization.

Juarez's campaign platform focuses on the prevention of crime, fiscal responsibility and education and family values.

"There will be a temptation to tinker with the recent education finance package. Resist making changes in the reactionary manner, rather gather the facts and make changes as necessary to ensure quality education is achievable," Juarez said.

NOTICE TO ELECTORS
OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE OF INTENT TO ISSUE GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS PAYABLE FROM TAX INCREMENT REVENUES OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY AND OF RIGHT OF REFERENDUM RELATING THERETO

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the City Council of the City of Belleville intends to authorize the issuance and sale of one or more series of general obligation bonds pursuant to Act 197, Public Acts of Michigan, 1975, as amended, in the aggregate principal amount of not to exceed in total One Million Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,900,000), for the purpose of paying all or part of the cost of acquiring land and acquiring and constructing street, sidewalk, sewer, park site, landscape, storm drainage, street lighting and streetscape improvements and improvements related thereto within the Development Area of the City of Belleville Downtown Development Authority (the "Authority") as more fully described in the Authority's Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan on file with the City.

The bonds will mature in annual installments not to exceed thirty (30) in number, with interest rates to be determined at public sale but in no event to exceed such rates as may be permitted by law on the unpaid balance from time to time remaining outstanding on said bonds.

SOURCE OF PAYMENT OF BONDS

THE PRINCIPAL OF AND INTEREST OF SAID GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS shall be payable primarily from the tax increment revenues derived from the Development Area of the Authority received by the City from the Authority.

IN ADDITION, the full faith, credit and resources of the City shall be irrevocably pledged to the payment of said bonds, and in case of insufficiency of the tax increment revenue payments for the payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds, the City shall be obligated to pay the same as a first budget obligation from the general funds or from any taxes which it may levy within applicable constitutional, statutory, or charter tax limitations.

RIGHT OF REFERENDUM

THE GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS WILL BE ISSUED WITHOUT A VOTE OF THE ELECTORS UNLESS A PETITION REQUESTING AN ELECTION ON THE QUESTION OF ISSUING THE BONDS, SIGNED BY NOT LESS THAN 10% OF THE REGISTERED ELECTORS OF THE CITY, IS FILED WITH THE CITY CLERK WITHIN FORTY-FIVE (45) DAYS AFTER PUBLICATION OF THIS NOTICE. If such a petition is filed, the bonds cannot be issued unless approved by the majority vote of the electors of the City voting on the question of their issuance.

THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the requirements of Section 5 of Act 279, Public Acts of Michigan, 1909, as amended.

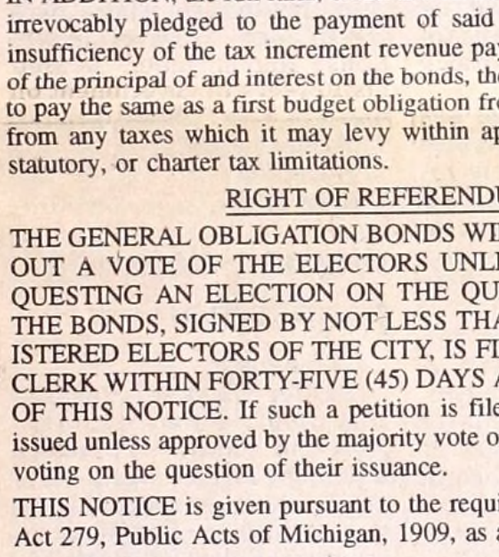

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION respecting the bonds will be furnished at the office of the City Clerk upon request.

WE NEED TO

CLEAN UP OUR STATE

Presently, landfills dot our area, and more are proposed. Landfills which emit odors, attract unpleasant waterfowl and erupt into flames are now the neighbors of many homeowners in our community. Now, the first-ever state hazardous waste injection well is proposed in our district. We must protect the environment now if we are to have a future. This year, the dump sites of 30 years ago have come back to threaten children's health at a school in our area and other toxic wastes have been identified as buried at sites in our district. We must protect our future now.

Here's what we need to do:

1. STOP THE LANDFILLS

We need to legislate the number and size of landfills in an effort to promote incineration. While opponents argue that the building of incinerator plants is expensive—I have long believed that the cost of the land used by landfills will soon far outweigh any such investment.

Land is becoming more and more precious to us. We can no longer, in our state, allow land to be used for the dumping of trash and garbage. The land consumed by this antiquated and outmoded means of disposal will soon be a hazard to our farming community. We need this land for homes, for parks and for farmers. We don't need any more dumps which threaten the safety and well being of our families and our children's children.

2. STOP THE INJECTION WELLS

We cannot gamble with the health and safety of our future generations with these hazardous waste injection wells. I believe, as do others, that in time these chemicals will leach into the soil and into our water supply. I do not believe we can predict that in 40 years, these wells will still be safe for our great-great grandchildren. We must protect the environment now if we are to have a future.

The long-term negative impact of these wells and of landfills is a threat to our communities and we must enact legislation which will provide for a safer disposal of these materials.

3. ENCOURAGE AND BUILD INCINERATORS

I have long been an advocate of incineration of trash. While this stance has drawn criticism from my opponents, if regulated and with safety standards carefully and meticulously imposed, incineration is the answer to our landfill problems. We need controls on these plants, as we do on so many things, but we can better protect our families and our communities through the planned and regulated incineration of our trash.

Recycling is crucial to our well being and our future. We must protect our environment and provide the education regarding recycling which so many residents need. I believe that more people would recycle and more residents would participate if we offered them the education and the incentive through our communities to do so.

At the state level, we could legislate trash pick-up and this type of citizen education—we could offer incentives to communities to recycle and to build incinerators.

I am not a prpponent of composting, as others may be. I believe that this, too, is too great a threat to the quality of life of those who must be near the operation and too much usable land must be devoted to this operation.

I believe in preserving natures gifts to us. I want to provide a clean, healthy environment for my children and my grandchildren. This is not an issue removed from the daily lives of any of us...but far too little attention has been paid to it at the state level.

If elected to serve as the State Senator from the 8th District, I will work to protect our future as well as our quality of life today.

Opinion

Decision-making time is at hand

In five days, Michigan voters will make their decisions to elect the federal, state and county candidates who will represent them in the coming years.

As we have in the past, we urge residents to cast their ballots for the candidates who they believe will best serve their communities. We hope that choices will be made on solid information about the backgrounds, platforms and characters of the candidates, not from hear-say or from the negative campaigning of their opponents.

We must remember that it is through the ballot box that we can institute positive changes for the future, and, therefore, it is imperative that all residents exercise the privilege - and responsibility - of voting.

On the proposal portion of the ballot, we make the following suggestions:

• On Proposal A, which, if passed, would convene a constitutional convention, a "no" vote. Although our current constitution is not perfect, we can continue to work within its framework and save the time and expense of a constitutional convention.

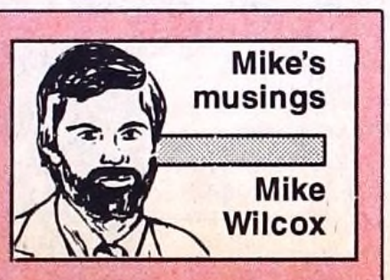

• On Proposal B, which would restrict the current practice of defendants who plead guilty or no contest to charges from automatically appealing their cases, a "yes" vote would be a common sense way of reducing the number of frivolous appeals that currently bogs down the state Appeals Court and at the same time reduce costs for the taxpayers of Michigan.

• On Proposal C, we recommend a "yes" vote, which would cap personal injury insurance to $1 million unless additional insurance is purchased at an added cost and reduce auto insurance rates by 16 percent for the six months. We are willing to see the caps placed on benefits in exchange for a rate decrease, but we will also carefully

Mike's musings

Mike Wilcox

Thoughts from a political junkie...

1. The gubernatorial race was decided long ago. Wolpe will get blown away by the Engler juggernaut.

The Wolpe campaign never really got started. A friend and former news editor for me in Oakland County, Dawson Bell, now in the Lansing Bureau for the Detroit Free Press writes that Wolpe is a very nice guy who has a hard time stomaching the guerrilla warfare that takes place in a statewide political campaign.

Engler, who does not suffer from a soft stomach, has no problem ripping Wolpe or his liberal cronies, thus will win handily next Tuesday.

2. The Perot factor will pay a big part in the U.S. Senate race. The Perot factor is Jon Coon, the Libertarian candidate. Some predict he will take as much as 8 percent of the vote. Coon is well-spoken and his conservative message plays well to many of us. He has managed to appear on most all radio and TV talk shows, and his road and yard signs are everywhere.

His opponents Bob Carr and Spence Abraham are wondering where the 8 percent will come from. I'm betting that Spence has the most to worry about, and because of that the election will be extremely close - at this point too close to call.

3. Nationally, the Republicans are hoping to snare majorities in both the House and Senate for the first time since the presidency of Dwight Eisenhower. Mitt Romney, son of former Michigan Governor George, is in a dead heat with powerful Democratic Senator Ted Kennedy. Iran-Contra hero/goat Ollie North may upset Virginia Senator Charles Robb. The list goes on and on.

My crystal ball says the Republicans will win the Senate, but the House will remain the domain of the Democrats.

4. Locally, the most interesting race appears to be the Bennett- Griffin struggle for State Senate. Both candidates appear immensely qualified for the job and voters will have a hard time choosing one over the other.

Griffin, the Democrat, has been a fixture at Westland City hall for a long time, having served as mayor and councilman. Bennett has been a fixture in Canton as that township's clerk. I like them both and wish they were running for separate offices instead of against one another.

5. Another local election worth noting is the state representative contest between Ed Juarez and Tom Kelly. Again, both candidates are

Proposal C supported

To the editor:

I sincerely hope your readers will take time to really listen to all the arguments for Proposal C. If they do this, I am sure they will draw the same conclusion as I -- Proposal C is good.

Proposal C will stop lawsuit abuse by not allowing the greedy trial lawyers to sue innocent accident victims.

It will give us choice in medical coverages instead of forcing us to pay for something we do not need.

Proposal C will lower rates now and force cost containment features onto our policies that will ensure that the rates stay down in the future too.

Proposal C will give the insurance companies the ability to look at health care provider's bills and make sure that they are being charged the same price charged to others.

Proposal C is a good law. We need this auto insurance reform to be enacted. Please vote for Proposal C.

Trustee explains ballot timing

To the editor:

One of the lead columnists

for the Detroit News has repeatedly criticized the Wayne County Community College Board of Trustees for placing the question of renewing the 1 mill tax levy on the November ballot. He has gone so far as to suggest that the board should be caned for their actions.

In truth, the board is acting in a responsible manner by placing the millage renewal on the ballot at this time. The current millage will run out in February of 1996. The last millage money received will be part of the 1995-96 budget. Any millage fund received after that time will be part of the 1996-97 budget which, under current law, must be prepared before the third Monday in April of 1996.

If the present millage request fails, the board would then be required to balance the college budget without any millage money included in it. Wayne County Community College would become the only community college in the state operating without any millage money. All of the remaining 28 community colleges have a permanent operating millage in place and are not required to face renewal elections.

The columnist has suggested that we wait until August of 1996 to bring the millage renewal back before the public. That would be totally irresponsible and fiscally unwise of any board of trustees to allow any public institution to be managed in this manner.

In the past, our board has not always acted in a responsible manner, but in this instance, we are acting responsibly and in the best interests of the tax payers who elected us and the students whom we serve.

I hope that you believe, as I do, that the most important thing is for the college to continue to serve the people of Wayne County regardless of any feelings about the board.

Gun owners ask for equality

To the editor:

As a patriotic American and a member of the National Rifle Association, I'm extremely concerned about the way the media has blamed gun owners for the rising tide of crime in our country.

To counter the myths that have surrounded the gun control debate, the NRA's Wayne LaPierre has just written a book titled, Guns, Crime, and Freedom. This book is available in local bookstores right now.

More than half of your readers are gun owners. I'm writing to ask you to give them the fair and equal treatment they deserve in the pages of your newspaper. And I urge you to begin carrying out this policy immediately, by publishing a review of Guns, Crime, and Freedom. Thank you for your consideration.

Woman defends councilman

To the editor:

Earlier this year a Romulus City Councilman was subjected to continued personal attacks by members of RECAP because of what they believed was a conflict of interest regarding the Deep Well. No one who knew the councilman involved ever believed any of the nonsense being repeated and it was an embarrassing time for our city. Eventually the whole mess was exposed for what it was; a politically motivated attempt to intimidate our City government. We saw this again in the "Environmental Protection Fund" millage campaign. Council people were again told of how RECAP represented the winds of change. Apparently the Deep Well issue is viewed by RECAP as a drop dead issue, its their way or no way! Unfortunately the rest of Romulus is footing the bill.

Now, once again, the forces of RECAP have turned their

Devil's Night, politics, parking ignite callers' ire

Readers, who have gripes, comments or compliments to share, may call our Sound-off line between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. to record them.

Callers are requested to speak clearly and to refrain from using abusive language or slandering individuals. Callers need not identify themselves.

During the past week, the following phone messages were received on the Sound-off 729-4006 line:

Hello, I'm thinking about the Belleville bridge construction. I say this bridge construction is something positive. The construction workers have been extra courteous. They smile, they wave, we get to see their faces. It's enabled me to slow done, smell the roses and savor the tree colors, and notice the fine details in the community. I go through town, and shake off the extra traffic, and feel blessed living here. We should all be grateful we have so much to share. If you find yourself noticing the negatives, take a deep breath, shake it off, and point out the positive energy. It's guaranteed to make you, your friends, your family happier. You can see the sun shimmer off the lake and laugh when people complain about every and anything in life. It's the best medicine and it can make a small town or the giant world your place. Hats off to all the positive people. You make our day.

I just discovered that four of the council persons in Wayne, with two of them running for office -- Tom Kelly and Ken Warfield – have accepted large donations from Cliff Johnson, of the Democratic Club. He's always around them and they're always working together, and I wonder what kind of influence Cliff Johnson has on our town.

Who is he, a power broker for the city of Wayne? And why do these politicians hang around him?

My gripe is about the parking situation at the strip mall at Glenwood and Wayne Road. I call it the Arbor Drugs mall. People think they can run in for one item and park in the fire lane so others can't get through. There are only four handicap parking spaces close to Arbor Drugs and the video place and Fantastic Sam's.

One mall employee, who if he's well enough to work all day for 10 hours, shouldn't take up a handicap parking place, but does so consistently. First, when he had his convertible, and now, with another bigger car. It's almost like he parks in the handicap zones and seems to have a sticker just so he park there. It's not fair because the elderly ladies going into Fantastic Sam's can't get a nearby parking space which they need. Also, it's a hazard.

• On Proposal P, we recommend a "yes" vote, which would establish an endowment fund to operate, maintain and improve state parks. An efficient means of funding state parks has been long-overdue, and this proposal would provide long-term benefits to all Michigan residents who use the state parks.

A "yes" vote is also recommended for the continuation of the one mill county tax for Wayne County Community College. Although internal problems continue to plague the college, we believe that the improvements made in programs far outweigh the negative publicity generated by some infighting. For western Wayne County residents, vast improvements have been implemented in the Western Center which now houses classes from three four-year institutions plus its own programs which develop job skills and lead to employment.

Endorsements on candidates for federal, state and county posts and judgeships will be made in the Nov. 6 edition of the Sunday Eagle & Engerprise.

well qualified. Kelly, a councilman in Wayne for 12 years espouses an anti-Engler philosophy calling him "the Teflon man." He's against Engler's education initiatives and positions on crime.

On the other hand, Juarez, a former cop, agrees with most of Engler's platform, and says his inexperience is actually a positive because people want fresh faces with the ability to lead - and that's him.

6. Just in case you're interested - Michigan Community Newspapers interviewed most of the candidates involved in political races this year. Our editorial staff has compiled and summarized the information provided at the interviews, over the fax and by mail so that each of us has a good grasp on what each candidate is all about.

A couple of days ago, we sat down and debated amongst ourselves as to whom the newspaper should or should not support. Thus, our choices are a consensus of the editorial staff of Michigan Community Newspapers, and not the individual choices of Mike Wilcox or Joan Dyer-Zinner. Please watch for our Sunday edition to note our endorsements.

7. Even though our Sunday newspaper is what we consider our "Election Edition," our coverage will not stop there.

On election day, Michigan Community Newspaper reporters and editors will be working to the wee hours, compiling as much information as possible to provide you with all the election results come Wednesday afternoon when the paper hits the streets.

Please feel free to give us a call on election night if you have results, or would like to know what is going on. We'll be in the office (729-4000) preparing the election news for the next day.

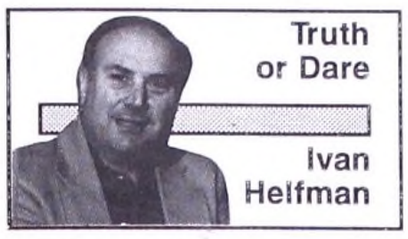

8. Finally, don't forget to vote. So often I hear how it doesn't make any difference, and so often I must remind people that one vote can make a difference. My dad launched a 26-year political career on a four-vote victory back in 1964. A friend of a friend just won a local post in Oakland County with a one-vote victory in the primary.

This is a watershed year. Many offices are going to change hands. Get out of that easy chair come Tuesday and make your way to the polling place and vote for the candidate of your choice.

Need further incentive? How about $5 off your next subscription to this newspaper? How about a free classified ad? I'll give you one or the other. Send in a note or post card writing "I voted" with $21 for your subscription (regular price $26) or ad copy for your free classified (10-word maximum).

We believe in the democratic process so much, that we'll pay you to vote! What a deal, eh!

Political debate discourages, not enlightens panel

At first, I felt flattered and honored to be invited to be a panelist for the Oct. 10 cable television debate between 13th Congressional District candidates Lynn Rivers and John Schall, at Garden City High School. It was a chance to question two remarkably accomplished individuals about their political goals and philosophies. Both looked like winners.

Without a lot of money, Rivers had the ability and strength of character to raise a family and receive a college degree from the University of Michigan and a law degree from Wayne State University, and then distinguish herself as an Ann Arbor school board member and a state representative. Her position papers indicated a compassionate woman dedicated to educational issues and children.

Schall was a whiz kid - high school salutatorian; received a bachelor of arts degree with distinction and honors in political science from the University of Michigan; and received a master of public policy degree from Harvard. President Reagan quickly recognized his talents and brought him to Washington. Under President Bush, Schall became the youngest chief of staff of a cabinet department at the U.S. Department of Labor. Definitely a rising star. And, as a signer to the Republican Contract with America, had positions that I thought I could question him about in depth.

Sounded too good to be true. That should have been the first sign of trouble. Clearly the second sign was the pasty white goo a young lady brushed on my face to cover up my red blotches and Forest Gump expression. Style over substance. The third, and worst sign, was the announcement of the new format, which didn't allow a panelist to follow-up his or her question.

Though I protested, I lacked the guts to drop out, and marched into the glare of flood and spot lights and the scrutiny of three cameras.

After the candidates recited their prepared statements, a panelist asked the candidates for the specifics of their health care positions. Instead of an answer, she received speeches. Schall orated a tribute to small business; Rivers criticized the defects of the present system.

The Republican Contract lost all credibility for me when Schall refused to say how he would pay for its programs without raising taxes. After the meeting, I asked Schall how he would finance Star Wars, as the contract includes reintroducing that unfeasible anti-ballistic missle defense system. Rather than answer, he denied that Star Wars was in the plan. When I showed him the plan and the Star Wars proposals, he told me that it was only under consideration, leading me to conclude that either the contract is not binding or he's not willing to honor it.

Rivers seemed to me to be just as deceptive on education and health care. After the debate, she tried to persuade me that outcome-based education will deal with academics, not emotions, attitudes, and behaviors; and that a universal health care system would be self- supporting without rationing.

That two such marvelous people could be such shadowy candidates kills my faith in the two-party system that programs candidates to skirt any substance. Since a recent opinion poll reported that 53 percent of Americans would consider voting for a third party candidate, I'm afraid that my gloom is widespread.

What, then, is wrong?

First, Congress members are out of touch. In the first House of Representatives, in 1789, each legislator represented 30,000 constituents. Now each represents 600,000, and personal relationships with and knowledge of a local representative have been replaced by media images and sound bites.

Second, Americans vote for people, not issues or party platforms. This makes accountability virtually impossible. We voted for Bill Clinton to be a domestic president, not the savior of Haitian presidents. Not surprisingly, our elected officials are always astounding us.

Third, our rulers are more concerned with foreign affairs, which are unpredictable, than with domestic affairs, which could be manageable if the President and Congress members would try. This is another way of saying we are more of an empire than a republic.

Fourth, we are governed administratively, by bureaucratic fiat rather than legislation. If few legislators read the 1,400-page health care proposal, how many do you think are going to read the 22,000-page sweeping world trade treaty?

Finally, the mainstream media is failing to inform voters well enough to vote intellectually instead of emotionally. Unfortunately, the prevailing emotion is frustration.

efforts to character assassination. This time they've zeroed in on Councilman Raspberry. At a Council meeting several weeks ago a spokesperson for RECAP stood up challenged Jimmie Raspberry's integrity. Can you believe this! Yes, Jimmie Raspberry, someone who has worked tirelessly for our community since before it was even a city. A man who worked at Ford Motor Co. for his entire adult life and who, upon retirement, determined to work on behalf of the people of our community. What right do these people have? How desperate are they to stoop to such low levels of conduct?

I for one want to go on record and tell Councilman Raspberry that, once again, RECAP is speaking on behalf of only a handful of people. They know who they are and, if they aren't, they should be ashamed of themselves. Public life carries with it a heavy burden and, for those who take on the challenge, we appreciate it. But, to be subjected to false land misleading statements intended to smear ones character shouldn't be part of the bargain. Speaking for the people, with a clear mind and strong voice, has been Councilman Raspberry's trademark. For that we should all thank him. The people of Romulus are not taken in by the members of RECAP. They may be neighbors and even friends but they've used up a lot of that friendship and sooner than later they will see that their behavior simply won't be tolerated any longer. No one has wanted to offend them before, but we've all gotten tired of it and, they should know, its a long way back!

At this obviously very emotional meeting, Neil Cowling was quoted as saying,"If kids acted like their parents, they'd be suspended from school."

In the same article, Mathew McCusker, board president, chastised a women for speaking out of turn, telling her to "shut up". That kind of terminology earns pre-schoolers in day care centers an immediate "time out" as an unacceptable and inappropriate response, regardless of the reason.

Perhaps a quick re-read of, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten may provide a more effective means of problem-solving during future board meetings.

Deep well supported

To the editor:

I live on Wahrman Road, south of Grant, across the street from the deep well. When people first started talking about this project my wife and I were concerned. My wife said as much to a television reporter who came around last October.

Since then, we've talked with the people from Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) and learned more about their project. Neither of us is concerned about the injection well or the plant that these people have planned.

I live and work in Romulus and have seen some real problems with our land and water. I think companies like this are having a good effect on the environment. As far as zoning is concerned I don't think what they have planned is a problem. It seems people are making more out of this than they should. This is an approved operation. The DNR and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) aren't going to walk away, and I don't think these people are going to do anything stupid after all of this.

If you take a look around our city its not the new clean plants that are causing problems with our property values. I think this could be a good thing and ask that you approve the zoning and let these people go on about their business.

Election tactics faulted

To the editor:

How opportunistic will candidates become to get elected? Let me give you an example. At two elementary school open houses in the Belleville area, two of Deborah Whyman's campaign workers were handing out Michigan information booklets. Coincidently, the booklets had large pictures of Deborah Whyman, who is running for re-election on the front and back covers.

The two men stood by the front door of the school passing out their pamphlets making it difficult for the children who had volunteered to welcome parents to school to do their jobs. Both men said, very rudely, that the school was a public place, which is true; but, it was not the proper place nor the proper time to hand out material that had no relevance to a school's open house.

The pamphlets that were handed out, had not been given to parents attending open house in previous years, only this election year. Neither of the men had children attending the schools, nor were they from this area. One of the men was from Northville, not even in the 21st District. Neither of the men, nor Ms. Whyman, had the courtesy of asking the principals if they could pass out the literature. I feel that it was an insult to the parents and the children that she would use political motives to hand out material under the guise of "information," as well as interfering with young children trying to welcome parents to the school.

Do we really want this type of person to make honest decisions in Congress?

Injury victim tells story

To the editor:

I am writing this letter because of my concern about Proposal C.

I am a victim of an automobile accident, having sustained a closed head injury in July of 1974.

The best thing going for me in terms of my recovery is the fact that I am covered under the Michigan no fault act. What is this nonsense that insurance companies are looking out for your best interest? They'll reduce your rates possibly for six months and they will cut your medical benefits for good! For consumers - C is a con.

Basically, it guarantees two things - it will limit your medical care and it would let insurance companies off the hook if one of their driver's injuries, maims or kills someone!

For crash victims Proposal C is cruel. Proposal C would end a Michigan law that provides for the lifetime medical benefits needed by so many accident victims.

Instead of lifetime medical care, Proposal C would limit all Michigan drivers to $1 million in care. We can buy higher coverage, but at a much higher premium.

I work at the Detroit Center for Independent living and see first hand what the majority of handicappers go through.

Funding pledge questioned

To the editor:

Wayne-Westland School District is in financial trouble. Bus service has been cut for thousands of students, there are not enough textbooks for everyone and there are more program cuts yet to be made.

What happened to Governor Engler's pledge to fully fund schools? We were lost in the bargain. His challenger, Howard Wolpe, promises to honor that pledge. I think a vote for Wolpe is worth a shot.

Newspaper supports book drive

> A book is a special gift that can spark a life-long interest in learning for the child who receives it.

The staff of Michigan Community Newspapers is joining with the Inkster Literacy Council to provide 400 new books for Head Start pupils this Christmas.

The books will be presented as gifts to 3- and 4-year-old youngsters who attend Head Start classes in Inkster. New books may be brought to the Wayne or Belleville office of the newspaper chain through mid- December, and they will be distributed to the youngsters by the Inkster Literacy Council.

Individuals and groups who wish to find a way to extend a helping hand to the community and to "make a difference" in the quality of life for children could adopt the Head Start Christmas Book Project as their special holiday endeavor.

Coordinating the project is Selenia Robinson, who is enlisting the aid of Inkster sororities and other area groups.

"A book is a special gift that can spark a life-long interest in learning for the child who receives it," said Robinson.

Information may be obtained by calling Joan Dyer-Zinner at 729-4000 during regualar business hours.

Bids for Kids gathers $150,000 for hospital

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

The recent Annapolis Hospital Bids for Kids extravaganza at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza was a huge success as area business leaders and residents joined hands in supporting the worthy cause.

More than 300 participants showed up in their evening attire to bid on a wide variety of auction items including ski trips, antiques and jewelry.

More than $150,000 was gathered from the event, and proceeds will now go to the prevention and treatment of injuries incurred by children, according to Carla O'Malley, senior vice president and chief operation officer at Annapolis Hospital.

"Unintentional injuries are the leading killer of children," O'Malley said. "Most of the injuries among children one to 14 years old are caused by traffic accidents, which accounts for 3,200 deaths in children, followed closely by drowning, fires, poison, firearms and falls."

Prevention efforts will focus on education. Annapolis Hospital officials plan to achieve this by expanding the Safety Day program, developing a safety coloring book and scheduling health fairs.

Classes in first aid, babysitting and cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be offered to children. Annapolis also will team up with local schools to develop helmet guidelines for children on bikes and in-line skates. This community-wide campaign will include the distribution of bike helmets.

The goals of the helmet program will include:

• To increase parent awareness with regards to both the magnitude of bicycle and in-line skating-related head trauma and protection afforded by helmets via pamphlets and posters located in physician offices by Annapolis Hospital.

• To decrease the costs of ANSI or SNELL approved helmets through the arrangements of a group discount with bike and in-line skate dealerships, in conjunction with an additional helmet coupon provided by Annapolis Hospital.

• To provide incentives to children for wearing their helmets during bike-riding and/or in-line skating by supplying schools and youth organizations with coupons for fast food, event tickets to be rewards for wearing helmets.

When accidents do occur, Annapolis wants to be ready with the best pediatric care possible. Therefore, some of the money raised by Bids for Kids II will provide funds to staff a pediatric "after hours" clinic in the Annapolis emergency room.

It will be staffed by pediatricians affiliated with Annapolis Hospital to handle non-emergency conditions during hours when a child's regular physician is not available.

Belleville, John Glenn, Robichaud qualify for state playoffs

Ecstasy: Tigers' streak reaches 9

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

This has been the long-awaited season of fulfillment for the football team at Belleville High School and coach Bob LaPointe.

A coach's dream. Ecstasy.

LaPointe and his undefeated Tigers Friday night on the home field routed Romulus 35-3 to become the first Belleville team since 1958 to win all of its regular season games.

However, the 1994 Belleville club (9-0) is one up on its predecessor (8-0) and could add to their total in the post season. Belleville has also qualified for its first-ever appearance in a Class AA state playoffs.

"We are proud of what this team has accomplished," said LaPointe after the victory over Romulus. But the veteran grid coach is quick to remind listeners that "the season is not over."

"There are still games to be played. The hardest part is yet to come."

To be exact, there are four more tough games ahead if the Tigers are to go all the way. But LaPointe said he will not look down the road. Only to Saturday, he says.

That's when the Tigers take to the home field to play a playoff- experienced Westland John Glenn (kickoff at 1:30 p.m.) Glenn qualified for the pre-regional game by whipping natural rival, Wayne Memorial, 21-0, last week.

It will be the first meeting between the two area teams.

After a horrendous start when the Rockets lost their first two, Glenn has come back and won five of its last six games. The Rockets also have plenty of playoff experience. They are the "AA" state runners-up, having lost to Fordson a year ago in the Pontiac Silverdome, 12-7.

"Glenn has improved each week since getting off to that 0-2 start," noted LaPointe. "They have a lot of playoff experience and also have one of the finest running backs in the state in (Brent) Washington.

"They have momentum and are well-coached. It all adds up for an excellent game."

Agony: Wayne falls to Rockets, 21-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn didn't waste any time with natural rival Wayne Memorial Friday night.

And Wayne apparently got the message.

In fact, the Rockets' first play from scrimmage, a stunning 44-yard touchdown run by tailback Brent Washington, set the tone and consequently burned Wayne, which missed making the playoffs because of their fourth loss, a 21-0 shutout.

"That first play seemed to set the tone for the entire night," said Wayne coach Chuck Howton, whose Zebras brought the curtains down on a 5-4 record. " And I can't explain it. We had such a good practice all last week.

"Is it a disappointment? Of course it is. I felt that this game would be closer than it was. I felt that we never got into the ball game."

And you can bet that the Rockets and their fans are happy about that.

The victory (See Related Story) qualified coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets for the Class AA playoffs.

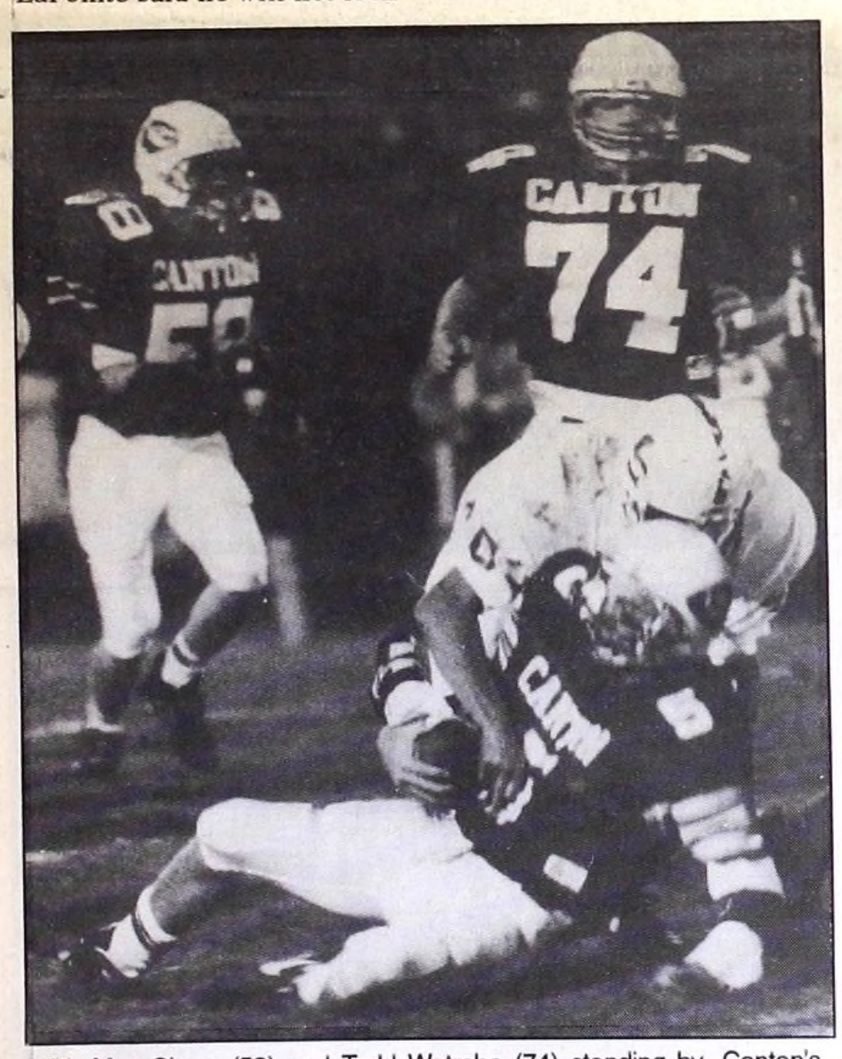

After Washington ripped through the Wayne defense for his spectacular 44-yard touchdown run, the Rockets made it 7-0 with Brian Kolb's first of three successful conversions.

The Westlanders made it a 14-0 game with 4:05 left to the intermission. Quarterback James Hagelthorn put together a time- consuming, 79-yard drive, capped by senior QB's dive into the Wayne end zone from one-yard out.

Wayne's best threat came immediately after Glenn's second TD. Wayne quarterback Lorenzo Guess, four of 17 for 86 yards, teamed up with end Richard Buford on a 47-yard pass that took the zebras deep into Rocket territory before time ran out.

The Rockets finished their regular season scoring in the fourth quarter after another long, 21-play drive that senior fullback Eric Davey polished off with his first varsity touchdown. Davey's TD was from Robichaud makes Class B grade..

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Although they lost to Monroe Jefferson in their final game of the regular season, Dearborn Heights Robichaud compiled enough points to sneak past Grosse Ile and Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook and qualify for the Class B predistrict playoffs.

However, coach Bob Yauck and the Bulldogs have the dubious honor of taking on Marysville, undefeated and ranked No. 1 in Class B during the entire season, in the pre-regional qualifier.

Marysville, winner of all of its nine games, will take on Robichaud, a 7-2 club at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday in Marysville.

In the other bracket, Detroit Country Day (7-1) will play Center Line (8-1) also at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The winners of the pre-regional will meet a week from Saturday for the regional championship and the right to play in the state semifinals.

Yauck, who has taken teams to the Pontiac Silverdome during the Tyrone Wheatley era and has won a Class B state championship, knows the kind of pressure there is on the teams during the single-loss elimination playoffs.

"You got to be focused on what your mission is," the veteran coach said. "There is no tomorrows if you lose."

Yauck added that Marysville deserves its top rating and will be the best team they will meet to date.

"We scouted them last week, and they have an outstanding team," Yauck continued. "They can do so many things. They just have an arsenal of weapons they can use against a team.

"And it's going to take a supreme effort on our part to beat them," Yauck said.

Robichaud will enter the pre-regional conflict with a 87-2 record. The Bulldogs saw their seven-game winning streak cut by Monroe Jefferson Friday before the home crowd.

...but Bulldogs flunk test with Jefferson

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Robichaud allowed Monroe Jefferson to slip away with a come-from- behind 23-12 decision Friday afternoon.

The loss snapped the Bulldogs' seven-game winning streak and left them with a 7-2 record for the regular season.

Two key plays - both bootlegs - led to Robichaud's demise as Jefferson scored twice in the third period to turn the tide after the hosts built up a 12-7 advantage in the first half.

"There are no excuses for what happened out there today," said Yauck as he strolled off the gridiron. "This was our game, and we allowed it to get away. Our defense had some mental lapses, and we paid for it as a team."

The victory lifted Jefferson to a 8-1 record and clinched a playoff spot for them in Class BB region 3.

Robichaud drew first-blood as senior quarterback Matt Alexander engineered a first-series, 65-yard drive that culminated with a 19- yard TD pass to Brett Kubitz with 7:54 showing on the clock.

The Bulldogs failed to cash in on the conversion, giving them a precarious 6-0 lead.

Monroe didn't waste any time. They retaliated with the returned kickoff as the Panza brothers - Tony and J.P. - moved their team from their own 17 to the Bulldogs' 12 where tailback Tony raced around end for the neutralized.

Then, Greg Maddux canned the extra point, giving the visitors the lead 7-6.

But the Bulldogs responded. In their next series - the second time they had possession, Alexander marched the team to the three were he cashed an option play into the team's second touchdown.

Mystique continues

Canton can't end Salem jinx

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

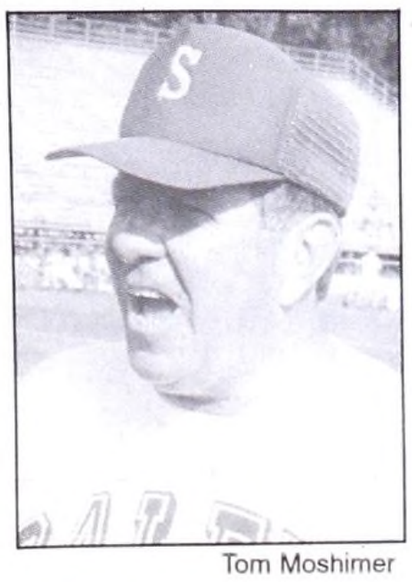

For the past six years, the home team has won the Plymouth Canton- Plymouth Salem game.

But that mystique was broken Friday night when coach Tom Moshimer and the Rocks visited (the two teams share one field) natural rival, Canton's gridiron.

The Rocks came away with a 21-20 victory, but they almost gave it away in the third quarter.

Salem now has won 10 of the 13 games since the series first began in 1981.

"Would you believe that they scored two touchdowns within a span of a little more than one minute?" Moshimer rhetorically asked. "I couldn't believe it. Here we were back in the game with two third period TDs, and all of a sudden we're fighting for survival."

A fumble and a blocked punt nearly turned the game into a nightmare for visiting Salem. The Rocks came back from 7-0 and 20-14 deficits to pull out the heart-stopper 21-20 thanks to a Brad Lear touchdown late in the game.

Lear crossed the Chiefs' goal line from the three on an option play that had Canton guessing all the way.

Mike Kley kicked all three extra one, including the one that stood up as the game-winner.

Canton dominated the first two quarters. In fact, Salem had the ball for only three plays during the entire initial half.

"I am proud of our kids," Moshimer said afterwards. "This definitely was a kind of game that could have gone either way.

Victorious Vikings

With a lopsided 42-12 victory over Dearborn Heights Riverside last week, Belleville North gridders brought the curtains down on a perfect season. Coach Rod Fisher's Vikings won all of their games this year, duplicating the feat accomplished by the Tigers at Belleville High who are undefeated in nine starts. Preps advance to state cross country finals

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The 1994 high school cross country season comes down to its final race and tests Saturday as preps will travel to Grand Rapids to compete in the state finals.

The area will be represented by Plymouth-Canton in the team championships, while Belleville qualified three and Glenn one runner after regional competitions.

Belleville coach George Devore will take Brian Mockeridge, Evan Ring and Craig Hogg while Glenn will be represented at state by Brandon Molitor.

Mockeridge, a senior, covered the 5,000 meter course at Southgate in 16:00 to finish seventh in the individual-phase of the regional finals. Teammate Ring was 14th (16:30) while Hogg crossed the finish line in 16:49, good for 20th.

Devore felt that the Tigers "were one man shy of qualifying as a team for the state."

"We needed one more runner to pull us up from our fifth place and we didn't have him," the first-year Tiger coach said.

Belleville finished fifth overall with 133 points. State-ranked and perennial title contender Ann Arbor Pioneer won the regional at Southgate with Monroe and Dearborn following in second and third.

> The top three teams from each regional qualify to compete for state titles. Excluding members of the qualifying teams, individuals who finish among the top 20 also are invited to compete in a separate race for state honors.

Molitor turned in the 19th best time as he was clocked in 17:35. His effort was his ticket to Grand Rapids where the state will conduct the finals at the Saskatoon Golf Course, located just outside of the city.

Although the Belleville women's team had placed four runners on the all-Mega Conference team, none survived the gruelling regional test. And that was a "big disappointment" to Tiger coach Sam Vicchy.

"I felt that this team was ready," Vicchy commented afterwards. "Our kids just folded under pressure. I am disappointed."

Belleville is represented on the all-conference team by Tammy Pietrowski, who won the league title the week before, and teammates Milissa and Katie Ackron along with Jamie Koren.

Canton finished third in the overall regional picture as Redford Catholic Central dominated the regional with 73 points. North Farmington runners were second-best with 114, while Canton finished third with 122.

The top three teams from each regional qualify to compete for state titles. Excluding members of the qualifying teams, individuals who finish among the top 20 also are invited to compete in a seperate race for state honors.

the one-yard line with 5:09 left in the game.

Linebacker Mike Sosnowski picked off a Guess pass in the ensuing series to end Wayne's final threat.

Washington finished with 201 yards on 33 carries, and Hagelthorn had nine rushes for 26 yards.

Wayne's best came from halfback Stan Stevenson, who rushed for 46 yards on 13 tries. The Zebras' offense was ineffective partially due to the performances of Glenn's strong linebacker's corps that also included Mike Brown. Jeremy Strick broke up a couple of crucial Guess passes.

Howton said that his team started the season strong, but "these past couple of weeks just didn't play up to their potential."

will meet the survivor of the Howell - Livonia Stevenson tilt, (also scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday) on Nov. 12 for the regional "AA" title and a berth in the state semifinals.

Belleville sealed its first undefeated regular season in 36 years with an impressive 35-3 victory over neighboring Romulus. Paul Onley's 43- yard field goal in the final seconds of the game helped Romulus avert the shutout.

Belleville got down to work early as Ian Gold scored on the first Tiger drive on a 55-yard, off-tackle, run.

Eric Harrison booted five of six Tiger point-afters.

The Tigers came back after a Romulus punt and quarterback Nate Lewis put together a 65-yard drive that running back Chris Cannon capped with an eight-yard touchdown run.

A Lewis to tight end Erik Szyndlar pass that covered 12 yards and gave the Tigers a first down was the big play in the TD drive.

Belleville turned it into a 21-0 score before the half thanks to Joe Manuel, who scored from 40 yards out for the third Tiger TD.

Back from intermission, Gold again sparkled with a dazzling 65-yard touchdown dash around the end of the Romulus defense and down the sidelines. He didn't stop until he was in the end zone.

Zyers Ruff also nudged his way into the scoring column with a three- yard TD plunge after the Tigers were the recipients of a poor Romulus kick.

Cannon and Gold continued to create havoc for the defense as Cannon collected 122 yards on 11 carries and one TD.

WYAA signs up hoop players

Westland Youth Athletic Association officials this week announced that they are accepting applications for the 1994-95 basketball season.

The WYAA is seeking junior cagers, boys and girls, ages eight through 14, to play in various age-group leagues.

Registration will be conducted from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and from noon to 2 p.m. on Saturdays at the Lange Compound Building, 6050 Farmington Road (two blocks north of Ford Road).

There is a $35 registration fee for players ages 8, 9 and 10, while the 11 through 14 age group will pay $50.

ond half thanks, in part, to a couple of Robichaud miscues.

Quarterback J. P. Panza scored on a 33-yard bootleg play that erased the deficit early in the third quarter and, after the ensuing kickoff, the Bulldogs played in Monroe's hands by committing a crucial turnover.

An errant snap from center during a kicking situation produced a Monroe insurance TD as John Davis scooped up the ball at the six and raced over the goal line for the score. Sam Ourlian point-after just added the frosting.

Although the Robichaud defense managed to rally and shut out the visitors in the last quarter thanks, in part, to the efforts of Brian Gipson, Brian Massey and Steve Schumacher, the damage had already been inflicted.

WHEATLEY WATCH

It wasn't a Michigan week.

But the Wolverines can't blame Inkster native, tailback Tyrone Wheatley, for their 31-19 lost on Saturday to Wisconsin, the defending Big 10 champ. The loss just about shattered all hopes of a title and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

With a 24-yard TD run against Wisconsin, Wheatley has now scored a touchdown in five of the six games he has played this season.

Wheatley has increased his career all-purpose touchdown record to 49 and his career rushing TD record to 43. Wheatley's 49 all-purpose TDs are tied for third on the Big 10 Conference all-time list with Keith Byards (49 in 1982-85) of Ohio State.

With 132-rushing yards on 20 carries - 6.6 yards per carry - against Wisconsin, Wheatley has 19 games in which he has rushed for 100 or more yards in his career, breaking the school record formerly held by Jamie Morris (18 in 1984-87). The Wolverines are 15-3-1 when Wheatley rushes for 100 or more yards.

With the Wisconsin totals, Wheatley has now rushed for 3,768 career yards, only 94 shy of passing Butch Woolfolk (3,861 in 1978-81) into second place on Michigan's all-time career rushing yard list.

Jazzettes capture hearts of area residents with their raw talents

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

They get up before the crack of dawn at 4 a.m. Their parents join them at breakfast and then drive their young hopefuls to the Wayne Community Center skating rink.

Once they are arrive through color-coded doors, the excitement begins. Boots with slick blades are laced up passed the ankle, and the layers of clothing are piled on.

For the Wayne Jazzettes this isn't just another day of skating practice. It's a day for fun, taking on a new challenge and spending time with their second family.

Skating director Janis Rychlinski best described her group of girls as dedicated individuals who never give up.

"They give up a lot at home and school to do this," Rychlinski said. "They help each other out and work together to reach their goals. That's team spirit."

Wayne has two young professional skating teams, Jazzettes and Junior Jazzettes, who skate in unison maneuvering various definitive twists and turns.

The talented youngsters have opened for the Ice Capades at the Palace and captured many first-place awards at various Ice Skating Institute of America competitions.

The Jazzettes consist of talented young girls anywhere from 9 years old to 20 years old. Skating instructors who coach the girls year round include Traci Nussbaum and Susie Gyulveszi.

At least four lines of skaters must move together on the ice, matching each other's precise turns. For Junior Jazzettes Sarah Ringel, 13 of Westland, and Tommy James, 10 of Westland, and his sister Lisa James, 8, sometimes traveling at lighting speed can lead to a disaster.

> They give up a lot at home and school to do this. They help each other out and work together to reach their goals.
> - Janis Rychlinski

"We've had a couple of crashes," said Lisa James. "But, you just get right back up and start over. I'm one of the smallest on the team, and I'm on the end so I have to work the hardest in a way."

Each of the skaters has their own personal reason for joining the Jazzettes. Ringel said when her family moved to Wayne from Belleville, she didn't have a lot of friends.

"I had a cousin who skated, and she was really good," Ringel said. "When we moved to Wayne, I heard about the Jazzettes and decided to join. I'm so glad I did because I met a lot of new friends who have become like a second family to me."

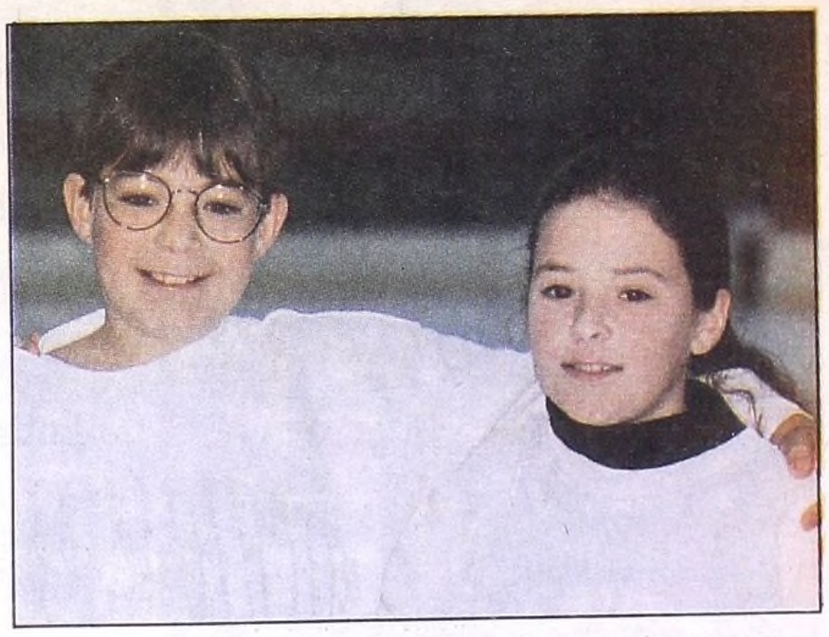

Cindy James

Janis Rychlinski

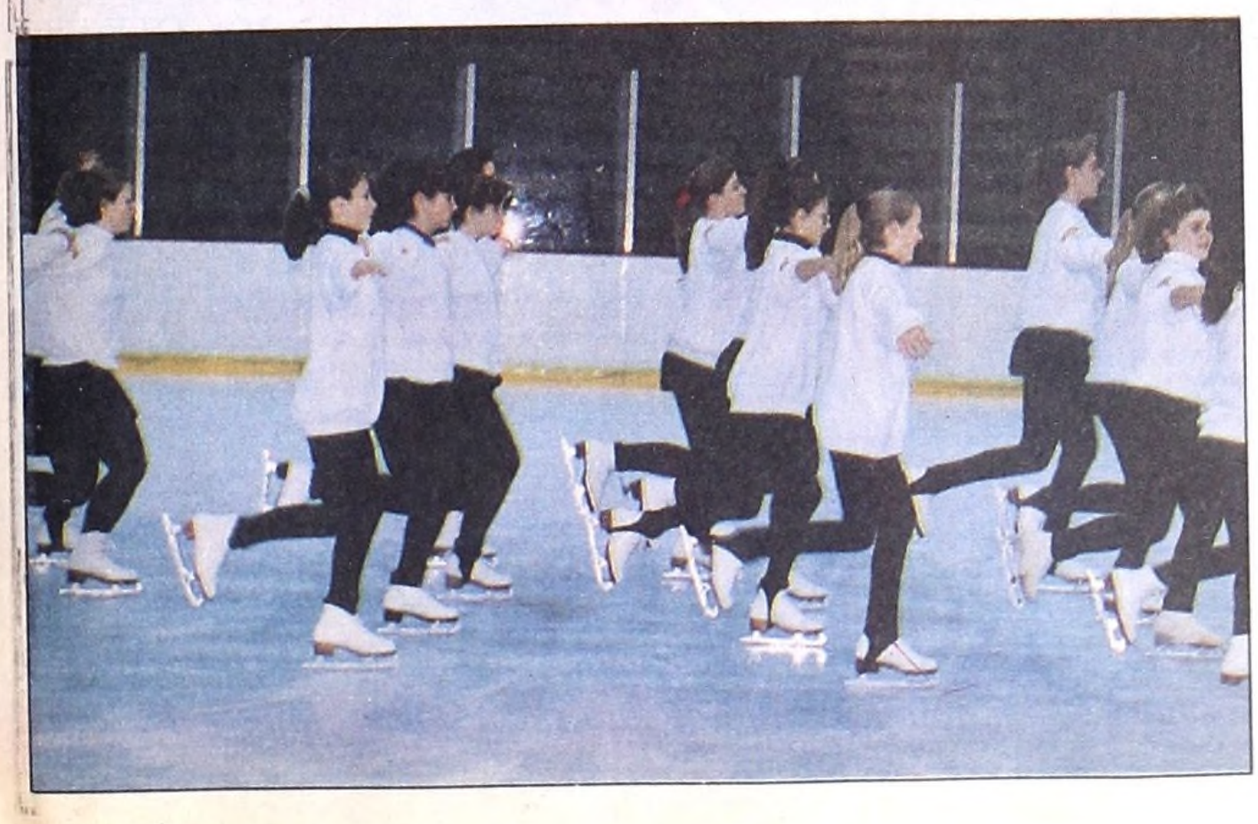

Ringel said she started her skating career at the age of 5. She practices 5 1/2 hours a week as a Junior Jazzette. Her goal is to become a precision team member on the Jazzettes.

Tommy and Lisa James enjoy skating on the same Jazzette team. Lisa said she wakes her brother up at 4 a.m. each morning. MCN photo by Kimberly Woloskie

Tommy James is the only male skater on either team. He said he doesn't mind being the only male because it offers a few perks now and then.

Hazardous material truck hit, overturns

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Emergency personnel were called in to stabilize a potentially hazardous situation at approximately 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when a 1992 Chevrolet vehicle struck a van transporting a hazardous cleaning substance, causing it to overturn, according to Westland Assistant Fire Chief George Riley.

When officials arrived the Safety-Kleen van was turned on its side in the passenger lane of Warren Road. No one was seriously injured in the crash, according to police reports, but the 62-year-old driver of the Chevrolet was transported to Garden City Hospital for minor injuries.

> "There was minimal leakage from one of the barrels. The product amounted to less than five 5 gallons (spilled).
> - George Riley

The van was forced

The incident occurred when the Westland driver was traveling eastbound on Warren and the Safety-Kleen driver was traveling in the opposite direction. The two collided just west of Hix Road when the Chevrolet driver apparently swerved over the double yellow lines and crashed into the 1992 Ford van.

road and overturned when it struck a mailbox on Warren.

Wayne County's Hazardous Materials Response Team (HAZMAT) along with Safety-Kleen personnel helped cleanup the spilled cleaning solvent which leaked from one of 12 barrels in the van.

According to Riley, emergency personnel turned the truck upright and the remaining 11 barrels were in tact.

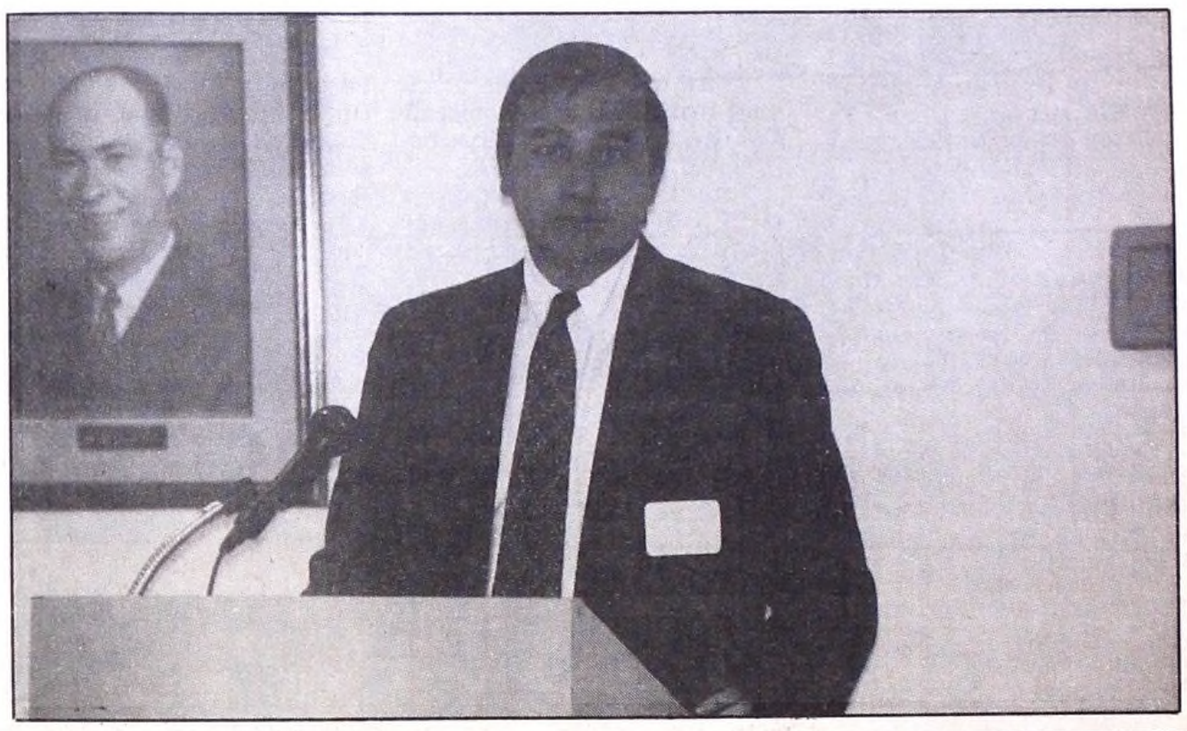

"There was minimal leakage from one of the barrels," Riley said. "The product amounted to less than five 5 gallons (spilled)."

Riley said much of the solvent was absorbed through a pad and the remaining soil contaminated with the solvent was dug up and removed from the area.

Gas leak coupled with fire causes Westland explosion

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Westland Fire officials determined the cause of an Oct. 16 house explosion, which ejected an elderly Westland woman from her home, to be an accidental fire coupled with a gas leak.

"The natural gas leak under the house was not a major problem," Westland Fire Marshall Patrick Harder said, however, he added, "An accidental fire caused the explosion when it burned through the back bedroom closet floor."

> "I'm not too sure they'll be able to put it back together, but there was $60,000 in damages.
> - Patrick Harder

Harder said the ignition source of the fire is unknown.

No one was seriously injured during the blast which ejected a 78-year- old Westland resident from her Berry Street home around 7:17 p.m.

According to Harder, the woman, who lived on the 5700 block of N. Berry Street, heard some noise in her backyard and when she opened the door to look outside the explosion occurred and she was throw into the backyard.

Fire officials located an interior fire in the back bedroom which extended into most of the home causing extensive fire damage.

"I'm not too sure they'll be able to put it back together, but there was about $60,000 in damages," Harder said.

New displays highlight holiday event at park

New displays, donated by corporate sponsors, and new tree lighting will add sparkle to the Wayne County Light Fest this year.

Winding along four miles of Hines Drive in the Middle Rouge Parkway, the Light Fest drew almost 300,000 visitors during its first year. County officials hope for an even bigger turn out this year, as the event increases with the addition of five new displays and new colored spotlights.

"We think tne Wayne County Light Fest is well on its way to becoming a local tradition," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "Last year, we saw that there is a strong demand for family activities during the holiday season. Our increased corporate sponsorship shows that others recognize that demand as well.

Among the new displays are a three-story-tall poinsettia wreath with flickering candles, an animated American flag with rockets and a new giant snowflake passageway.

The Light Fest opens on Nov. 14 and continues through Jan. 1, 1995, except for Christmas Day, from 7 to 10 p.m. During this time, Hines Drive will be closed to traffic at 5:45 p.m. Light Fest traffic will enter Hines at Merriman Road and proceed, one-way, eastbound, exiting at Warren Avenue in Dearborn Heights. Concessions and photos with Santa will be available at the Warrendale picnic area at the exit.

A donation of $5 per car will be used to maintain the park system.

Hand-outs lead to arrest of campaign worker

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

One of Representative Deborah Whyman's campaign workers blames politics for his arrest at the Tyler Elementary School open house in Van Buren Township.

Joe Munem was arrested Sept. 28 for allegedly being a disorderly person and failure to comply with a lawful police order.

"I was just passing out Say No to Drugs coloring books to kids," said Munem, "and I was within my rights."

Noting that the township board votes on police pay raises, Munem speculated that police favor Whyman's opponent Donna Clark, a township trustee.

Van Buren Township police were unavailable for comment. However, Van Buren Superintendent James Richendoller denied the arrest was politically motivated, pointing out that other Whyman supporters were allowed to "pass out the very same literature at other buildings because they abided by what they were asked to do."

> At this point, my attorney is looking into a litany of civil suits to file against the township, Corporal Brooks, and the school system.
> - Joe Munem

The incident began when Tyler Principal Raymond Gross saw Munem passing out literature in the school lobby during the open house.

"It was not DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) coloring books, but I don't know what Munem had in his hands," said Gross.

Believing that Munem was passing out campaign literature, Gross asked him to follow the election law and move 25 feet beyond the school building. According to Gross, Munsem resisted, so Gross called the police.

Munsem admits to arguing with Gross, but said that he moved 25 feet away from the building after being asked to move by DARE officer James Miller.

"By this time, the principal had called in the cruisers," said Munsem. "Cpl. (Dennis) Brooks came up and ordered me off the property, at which point I informed him that I had complied and was 25 feet away from door."

Refusing to leave, Munem was arrested, and released on $200 bond, he said.

"At this point, my attorney is looking into a litany of civil suits to file against the township, Corporal Brooks, and the school system," he said.

Gross denied that any rights were violated, saying that Munsem was given "many opportunities" to pass out his literature 25 feet from the school, but repeatedly refused."

Whyman said that she doesn't condone her volunteers getting arrested.

"He's on his own," she said.

Undercover officer charges Westland with hiring discrimination

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

An undercover narcotics officer asked the Equal Opportunity Commission to investigate whether Westland has discriminated against him by rejecting his application to join its police force. The applicant is an African-American.

Westland Police Chief Emery Price denies any discrimination against the officer, a five-year veteran of the Inkster Police Department (whose name is withheld to protect ongoing undercover investigations). For the last two years, the officer has served on the select Metro Street Enforcement Team under Price's supervision.

"I'm good enough to put my life on the line for them on a regular basis. Why aren't I good enough for them to hire?" asked the officer.

The rejection followed a review of the officer's application and results of the Reid Psychological test, according to William Sonnenberg, president of the Westland Fire-Police Civil Service Commission

"I feel sorry for him," Price said. "He's a fine police officer. However, the state says that all applicants have to go through the same tests. We have had other police officers not pass."

Westland's failure to respond to the officer's questions and the racial composition of the department (as revealed to him in a Michigan Community Newspaper Oct. 20 article, "Western Wayne police departments slow in hiring females, African-Americans), not the rejection, caused the complaint to be filed Oct. 26.

The officer wrote Sonnenberg, Oct. 6, asking for written clarification of the rejection letter, which the officer found "vague." Rather than answer, on Oct. 21, Sonnenberg referred the officer to D.J. Reid, whose Chicago, Ill. company tested the officer. The officer is awaiting a response from Reid.

Dr. David Arnold, an attorney and a psychologist at Reid, could not comment on either the officer's results or the weight Westland puts on the test in making hiring decisions. However, he said the test, which has been administered to more than 150,000 job applicants during the past 45 years, has been "extensively validated" as an accurate predictor of "on the job behavior." He said the test is accurate and nondiscriminatory.

He declined to state the margin of error because he said the subject is too difficult for the public to understand.

According to an Oct. 10, 1991, ruling by Wayne District Court Judge John Hausner, the Reid Psychological test can be used to exclude public safety applicants.

Though not confronting the city about why the police department employs only one African-American officer, the rejected applicant noted that, when he applied, only two African-Americans qualified to take the Reid test and neither survived it.

The rejection surprised the officer for many reasons. First, he had applied at the urging of Westland officers.

Second, he has demonstrated psychological fitness both on the job in Inkster, on the MSET squad, and in the Army, where he spent five years, retiring as a highly decorated sergeant in 1989.

"I was on the honor guard at the battalion level, an honor only reserved for most outstanding soldiers," he said.

"He is psychologically fit to be employed by Inkster," said Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell. "He's a good officer."

Third, he is a police academy instructor at Schoolcraft College, teaching drill instruction and physical training.

The EOC investigation could take up to a year, said Gayle Cober, EOC investigator.

> I'm good enough to put my life on the line for them on a regular basis. Why aren't I good enough for them to hire?
> - officer

While Cober cannot comment on a current investigation, she said that justified complaints that are neither settled nor conciliated are referred to the U.S. Department of Justice, who decides whether to take legal action.

"By that time I may have a job with another force," said the officer. "It will be Westland's loss."

Both Price and Westland Clerk Diane Fritz said that the officer can file an appeal with the Civil Service Commission.

"He has to take the initiative and contact me and I will tell him how," said Fritz.

Though the officer's first information request was rebuffed, he said he is interested in Fritz's offer.

Westland has one black officer, and 2,817 blacks, 3.3 percent of population.

The inequality of outcome in hiring of African-Americans baffles the chiefs and personnel directors.

To insure equal employment opportunity, Westland follows EOC hiring guidelines, according to Don Reddy, Westland Deputy Police Chief, including posting positions in minority newspapers, such as the Michigan Chronicle, and using colorblind written tests designed and administered by outsiders to eliminate bias.

With the exception of background checks, the Westland hiring is done by a three-member Civil Service Commission, following the requirements spelled out by State Act 78, Reddy said.

Local militia number 500, vow to fight government abuse

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Livonia mail carrier Ken Vojtech, a former Army airborne ranger, founded the Wayne County division of the state militia because he interprets the U.S. Constitution literally, including the second amendment, which reads: "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

Founded seven weeks ago, the Southern Michigan Regional Militia, 4th Division, 14th Brigade Wayne County, informally known as the Wolverines, is approaching 500 members, many from western Wayne. Like the 12,000-strong state Militia, members include women and minorities. The Wolverines repudiate racism and white supremacy. The state militia is formally linked to Ohio, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, and has been contacted by militias or by groups interested in forming militias from 46 states.

"We're the fastest growing militia in the state," said Vojtech, recently elected commander. "At the current growth rate, we expect 1,500 to 3,000 members within a year.

"The majority seem to be from Westland," he said. "Some come in groups of five and six, others come singularly. But Westland people seem informed about what's going on."

Westland resident Mark Maslak said he is joining the militia to restore the Constitution and Bill of Rights to what our forefathers intended. The Waco and Ruby Ridge gun fights convinced him that the federal government is abusing its powers.

"The killing of almost 80 people at Waco was a plain atrocity that shouldn't have happened," he said. "At Ruby Ridge (Washington,), the feds trumped up weapon charges on Randy Weaver because he wouldn't fink on a white supremacist group .... This resulted in an AFT sniper shooting his wife in the head while she was standing in the doorway holding their baby, who was also shot and killed."

Closer to home, Vojtech and Maslak see their rights being threatened by the Canton Township firearms possession ordinance, which bans all but single-shot guns. The Wolverines plan to peacefully confront the Canton Township Board and convince them to modify the ordinance to conform to the Michigan Constitution, Article 1, Section 6, which states: "every person has a right to keep and bear arms for the defense of himself and the state."

A similar confrontation in Plymouth convinced the Plymouth City Council to modify their gun control ordinance. The confrontation worked because the militia used restraint.

"We favor legislation," Vojtech said. "Instead of marching into city hall, we sent three delegates to their city council meeting while 500 militia members waited at the Livonia Library for orders.

When we're dealing with a government that's questionable in its morality and its intentions toward us people, we have to have some sort of teeth to back up our words."

The Wolverines intend to remain defensive unless the government suspends the Constitution. However, Vojtech anticipates that an impending financial collapse will be used as an excuse for the president to declare martial law. His fears are fueled by evidence of police and military forces training together in anti-terrorist warfare, which includes breaking into homes and clearing them out, he said.

Therefore the Wolverines are preparing and training to protect the Constitution.

"We're taking the first step of training everybody in basic survival," he said. "Then we will train with our weapons at gun ranges. We are asking Wayne members to have a minimum of 300 rounds of ammunition instead of the 100 rounds suggested by President James Madison."

According to Maslak, Madison had said that each militia member should keep ready a current weapon with 100 rounds.

"The musket was weapon then. The current weapon is the semi-automatic rifle -- what they call an assault weapon," he said. "The military uses an M-16 rifle, something civilians can't own. We can only own the semi-automatic Colt Sporter AR-15. If we convert it to an automatic, we face 40 years jail.

"Now the crime act has banned 190 weapons, including the AR-15. ATF already defined 700 more to ban, since any semi-automatic is a threat to the government under the crime act."

Besides weapons, militia members are urged to obtain gas masks. Machetes, Kevlar vests or body armor are recommended. However, camouflage and uniforms are not required.

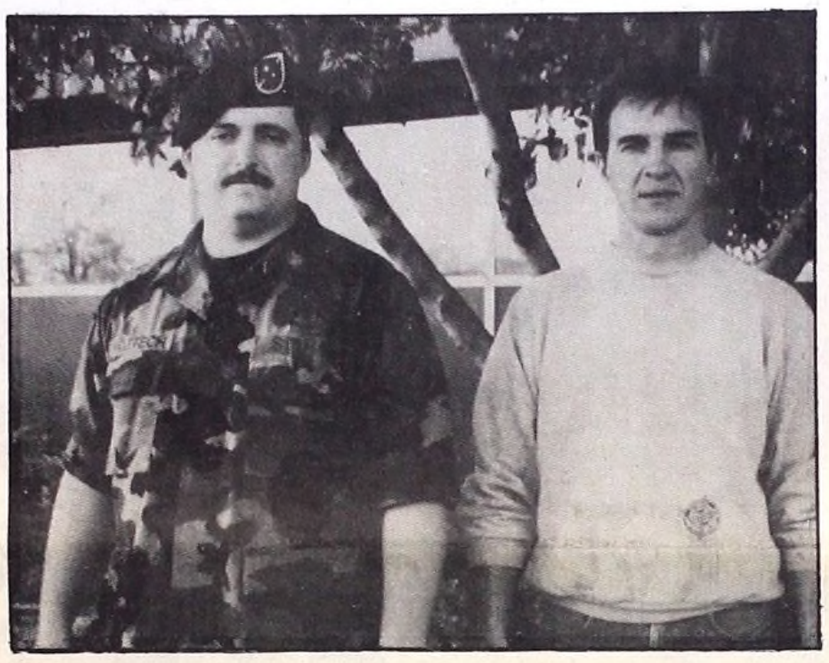

"The Wayne division is different than the rest. Members don't have to run around in camouflage or attend rallies," said Vojtech.

But members are told to store food, water, fuel and other necessities because "Clinton signed the hoarding act and you can now go to jail for keeping food longer than three weeks." Vojtech expects the government will cut off power and water service after declaring martial law.

Besides preparing to defend the Constitution militarily, the militia demonstrates against lesser infringements, most recently against the raising of the United Nations flag over the state courthouse in Lansing, which indicates a loss of sovereignty to Vojtech and Maslak.

"The government forced school children to attend, some dressed up as U.N. soldiers with camouflage uniforms and blue helmets."

The Wolverines plan to rally for citizens' rights from noon to 5 p.m., Nov. 5, at Wayne State University.

Area men plead guilty

A Jan. 11, 1995 sentencing has been set for a Belleville man and a Wayne man charged with malicious destruction of property in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court.

Kenneth William Short of Belleville and James Carl Talaga of Wayne entered guilty pleas to the malicious destruction charge in Recorder's Court.

The two defendants are accused of spray painting various walls and buildings in the downtown Wayne area. Short and Talaga were allegedly assisted by Wayne residents Jeremy Rush Hickey and Nicholas Alexander Vargo.

A conference was scheduled last week for Hickey, and Vargo appeared for an arraignment on information.

The incident occurred the evening of Sept. 2. Talaga was accused of one count of malicious destruction of property. Vargo, Short and Hickey were charged with two counts of malicious destruction of property.

During the arraignment for the defendants, a $2,000 bond or 10 percent was set for each.

Trial set in assault of woman

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

A Detroit Recorder's Court jury will decide the fate of a Wayne man Jan. 11, 1995 who is charged with three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct.

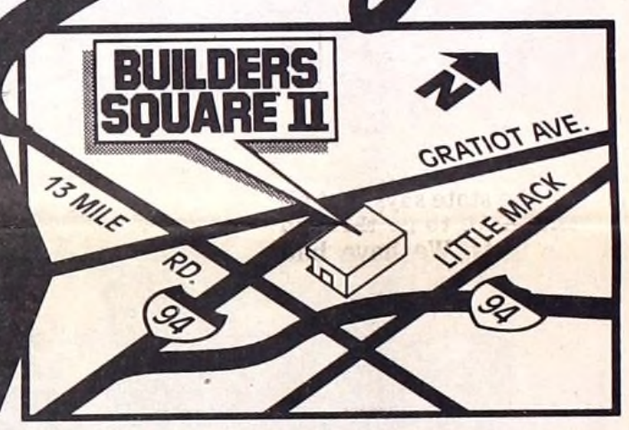

Ronald James Holt, 19, allegedly assaulted a Wayne woman Aug. 14, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews. He was arraigned Aug. 15 before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold, and a $100,000 cash bond was set.

Drews said the victim knew the defendant. She was the one who called the police with the complaint.

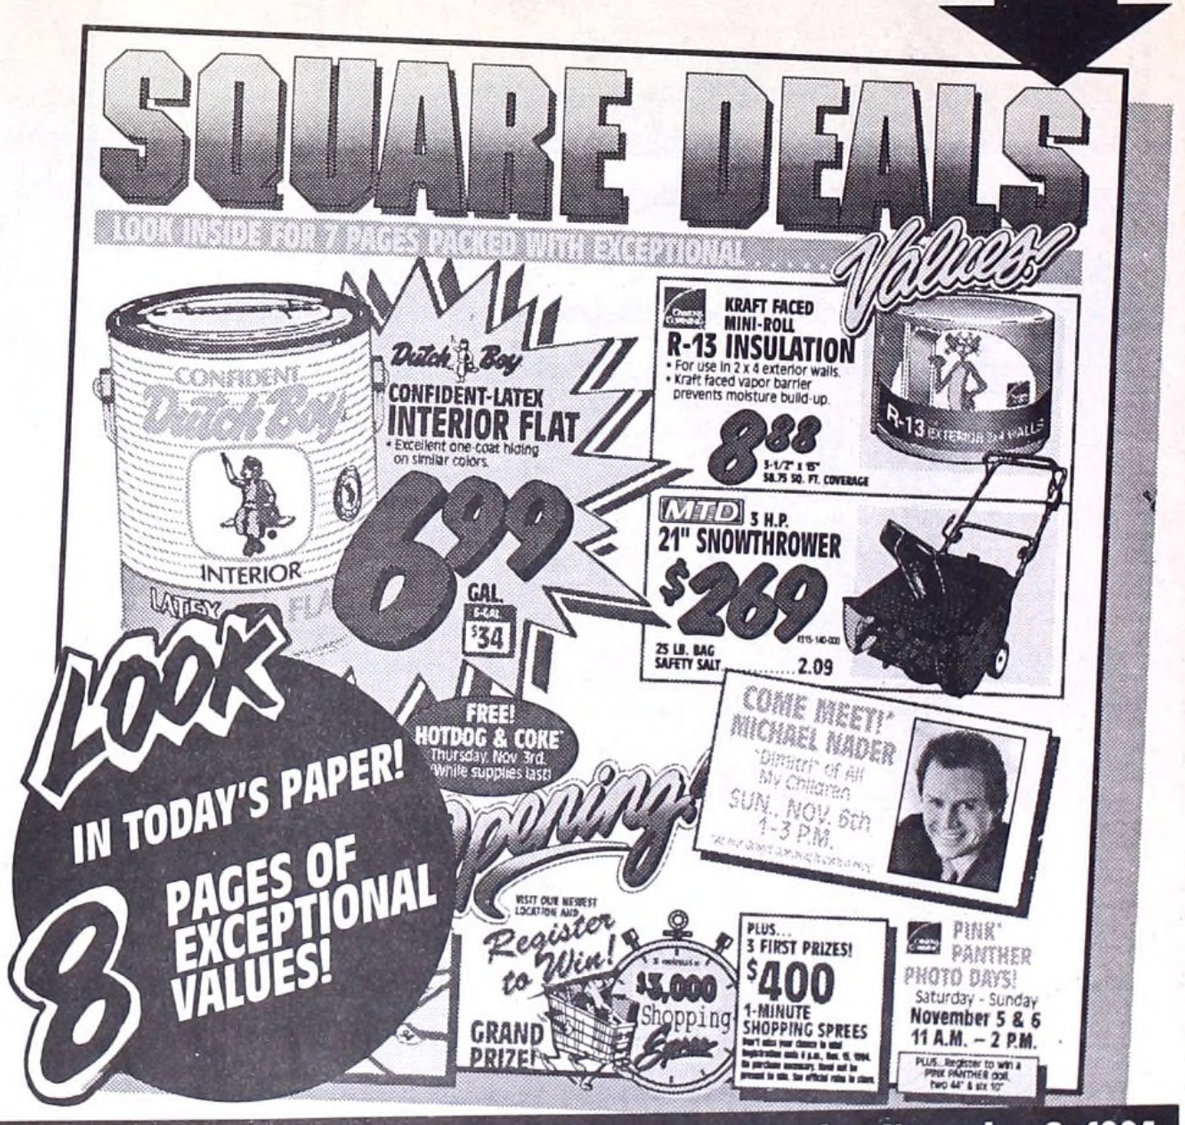

A not guilty plea was entered during the arraignment. The Aug. 24 examination was waived, and Holt was bound over to Recorder's Court.

If Holt is found guilty of all three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, he could receive up to life in prison, according to Drews.

Parents honored at area school board meeting

Former Field Elementary parent and current East Middle School parent, Linda Morgan, was honored at the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting on Monday, September 26 for her volunteer services at Field Elementary School.

The "I Care" committee and the Board of Education established the "Extra Miler Volunteers in Public Schools (VIPS) Award" in 1991 to recognize outstanding volunteers in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

"Linda is always bright and cheerful and willing to help in any way she can; she is a person you can call at the last minute and she'll be there," said LeeAnne Young, former Field PTO president. "Linda has the welfare of all students at heart."

Linda's many volunteer activities include serving as PTO vice- president in 1992-93 and PTO treasurer in 1993-94, Library Book Fair coordinator, working on the French Back to Back program and helping in the classroom. SHe also has worked on the playground committee, the sign for the front of the school and has helped in the classroom and has worked on popcorn sales.

"Several times a week Linda was in our building helping in numerous ways," said Marion Heath, Field Media Specialist. Linda feels that it is important to be a part of her children's school.

Best cook on the block

Chicken, dumplings are Sumpter woman's specialty in the kitchen

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
MCN Staff Writer

When it comes to chicken and dumplings, Sumpter Township resident Connie Beaudrie is known far and wide.

"They tell me it's the best," she said modestly, "and if they know that you're gonna cook, they all come."

They, being all six of her children.

Beaudrie has been cooking for more than 50 years. She started at the age of 15, when she married her husband.

Since that time, she has expanded her cooking repertoire to include recipes passed down through the family and experimental dishes.

"The chicken and dumplings recipe was passed down," she said, "but other things like my zucchini and banana bread were experimental."

While the bread, which mixes fruit and vegetable, turned out for the better, Beaudrie can remember some experiments that did not turn out so well.

"I tried putting raspberry jelly in a cake once," she said, "and it flopped."

Instead of sampling it to see if it tasted better than it looked, Beaudrie disposed of the creation and started over.

"You need to try hard and experience everything to be a good cook," she said. "If it does not work, just try again."

Experimentation expands beyond just banana bread. She also prepares main dishes, pastries, desserts and salads. She is so accustomed to her food ventures, that she was surprised to find that not everyone puts sugar and vinegar in their cole slaw.

"I've been doing it for 57 years," she explained.

Within the last 10 years, she has started to share her recipes with anyone who wants them.

"I began catering with my son's wedding," said Beaudrie, an employee of Sumpter Township Hall. "Now, I cater weddings, anniversary parties and graduations."

With all this cooking talent, one might think that Beaudrie would get sick from eating so much good food. The fact is, she eats very little..

"I don't like to eat it after I cook it," she said. "Being around it all day..."

Perhaps that is the reason Beaudrie only prepares a few items when it comes to family get-togethers. Whatever she does not cook is supplied by her two daughters and daughters-in-law.

"My daughters watched me whenever I cooked," she said.

The two are both married now and cook for their own family. As for her sons, a few of them enjoy the home cooking of their wives, but at least one can still smell the scent of Beaudrie's chicken and dumplings or stuffed cabbage in the air.

"He just lives down the street and whenever I cook them, I get a call from him," she said. "He says 'Mom, you know what I have a taste for.' Of course, I ask him over."

Whenever Beaudrie is not cooking or working, she is canning.

"I haven't bought corn or beans in 30 years," she said. "Just last week, I cut the kernels off 65 dozen ears of corn."

Although, the vegetable will stay good for up to two years, Beaudrie reported that she gave some cans away just to make sure they were used in a timely fashion.

New law cracks down on underage drinkers

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
MCN Staff Writer

Underage drinkers better beware is the message coming from Lansing.

State legislators have made underage drinking and driving as undesirable as possible with the new "Zip, Zero, Zilch" law that will begin Nov. 1 of this year. In just a few weeks, minors who register a .02 on a breath test (equivalent to one beer) will be considered in violation of the law and face a 30- to 90-day suspension of their driver's license followed by a mandatory $125 reinstatement fee; up to 45 days of community service; and/or fines of up to $250 as a first time offender. Convictions will also result in four points on a driver's record.

Repeat offenders will face increased penalties.

"Teenage drinking and driving remains a problem in Michigan," said State Representative Frank M. Fitzgerald (R-Grand Ledge), who sponsored the legislation. "This law is part of a consistent message we are sending to young people that drinking and driving is illegal and will not be tolerated. Stronger penalties must be combined with a renewed emphasis on prevention and education."

Posters and information cards with the slogan "Zip, Zero, Zilch: That's how much you can legally drink and drive if you are under 21" are being distributed throughout the state to make young drivers and their parents fully aware of Public Act 211 and its strict penalties.

While the nationwide epidemic has not been an extreme problem in Canton Township, it does happen, said Community Relations Officer Tammie Colling.

"We don't see an overabundance of juveniles drinking and driving," said the officer, "and part of the reason can be attributed to good community support."

With very few juvenile "hang-outs" in Canton Township, the businesses who do occasionally experience underage celebrations usually disband the group quickly," she continued.

The new law is geared toward reducing the number of intoxicated juveniles involved in accidents.

According to the Secretary of State and Office of Drug Control Policy, alcohol-related auto collisions are the leading cause of death for youths who can legally drive; and a young person under the legal drinking age is nearly twice as likely to die in an alcohol-related crash as an adult over 21.

The two groups believe that Michigan youths rank higher in alcohol abuse than the national average citing that more than one in four high school sophomores drink excessively. Studies show that 30 percent of state high school seniors also binge drink, or drink more than five drinks in a row in the past two weeks.

"Another 17 percent of Michigan eight graders binge drink, compared to 13 percent annually," the report states.

The new legislation was made possible through the Michigan State Safety Commission, involving the Directors of Departments of Education, Public Health, Transportation and State Police. The group was chaired by Governor John Engler.

"Young people are our most precious resource and tough laws, combined with education and information, will make the difference," he said.

Colling believes the program will not only benefits youths, but also adults.

"It will help the whole public view on drinking and driving, because these juveniles will grow up to be more responsible as adults," she said. "By letting them know this is not acceptable behavior, they will not push the limits when they become legal."

People can get free copies of brochures and other materials explaining the "Zip, Zero, Zilch" law by contacting the Michigan Substance Abuse and Traffic Safety Information Center at 1-800-626-INFO.

Residents oppose use of violent criminals in the workplace

When questioned about their opinions on the use of convicted violent criminals being used in work-release programs, area residents were unanimously against the practice.

The majority of those questioned were unaware that violent criminals - those convicted of second-degree murder and armed robbery - were eligible for work-release programs.

Opposed to the practice of violent criminals in the work place, particulary in close proximity to residential neighborhoods were the following area residents.

"No, definitely not. They should be in jail for the crime they've committed," said Phyl Long of Canton Township.

Belleville resident Gloria Doyle said she was shocked to hear of the practice, and found it "unbelieveable" that convicted felons could be employed in factories adjacent to residential areas.

"I didn't know this was going on," Doyle said.

"No, I disagree with that idea completely. They've committed a crime against society and should be jailed," said Wayne resident Mark Backus.

"No. They've done a crime, and shouldn't be out in a job-related situation," said Tammy Scott of Westland.

A caller to the Sound-off 729-4006 feature, questioned sarcastically whether the current "jailbirds" would be replaced with lepers?

Prompting the controversy was the hiring of temporary employees with criminal backgrounds by the Technicolor Video Cassette Co. of Westland

Some 30 to 45 work release inmates from three Detroit correctional facilities were employed by the plant during its peak season.

Neighbors complained that the temporary employees were littering glass, razor blades and knives and were urinating and defecating in public areas, harassing adults and children and drinking alcohol.

The protest hit its peak after one of the work release employees, who was serving time for second-degree murder and another for armed robbery were involved in the stabbing of a third worker. The victim was stabbed in the head with a chisel, and is recovering from his wound.

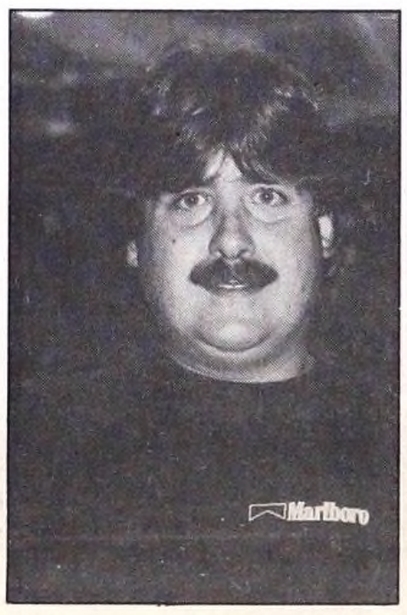

After the incident, Technicolor executives promised to rid the company of temporary workers and employees with criminal records by the end of November.

Editor's note: We regret that when the editorial page feature, Footnotes, was published on Oct. 27, the photographs and captions were incorrect. The residents' correct comments and their photographs are published with this article.

"For instance when you travel for competitions, I get my own locker room," James said. "The disadvantage is you stick out a lot when you're skating because you are the only boy."

> "You're the center of movement, and you can really feel everyone pulling on you.
> - Sheila Nash

For the Jazzettes precision team members, many have their eyes set on the Olympics. Amie Reiners said she has skated since she was 3 years old and would like to become a celebrity skater one day.

"I enjoy skating especially with the Jazzettes because everyone is so committed to what they are doing," Reiners said. "

Sheila Nash is situated as a middle team member in a Jazzette line. She said that's a very difficult position to be in.

"You get pulled in many directions," Nash said. "You're the center of movement, and you can really feel everyone pulling on you. I've gone up the ladder with the Junior Jazzettes and then the Jazzettes. It is really a great experience. I just want to pass all of my freestyle levels one day."

Mothers of the skaters are also committed and devoted to making sure their children are happy with what they are doing. Cindy James, mother of Tommy and Lisa James on the Junior Jazzette team, said she has three children in a skating program, and she doesn't mind getting up early every morning.

"It's mainly for recreation for them," Cindy James said. "I came here because I heard about what a great program Janis Rychlinski had. I have all three of my children involved, and they just love it. It's not only for the experience, but they also have a better self-esteem.

"They are the first ones in the classroom to raise their hand to give a presentation.

Rychlinski has created a new team this year. For the first time there will be a Lady Jazzette performance group.

"They will be anywhere from 20 years old on up," Rychlinski said.

Residents become inventors, receive patent

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

It's a cool idea, and Wayne resident Vicki Blackwell and her friend Brenda L. Morton are hoping to cash in on their invention.

The two friends created a "Keep It Cooler" cooler which maintains the crispness of food or liquid by using reusable ice packs inserted around the sides of the box.

"We came up with the idea by watching a commercial on television one day," Morton said.

"We saw them advertising a cooler, and we thought that we could make a better one," Blackwell said.

The inventors put their thinking caps on and designed their unique cooler and sent it in to the American Inventors Co. Inc. They were recently informed that they were granted a U.S. patent on the Keep It Cooler.

"How it works is you insert ice packs, and they slide easily on the sides," Blackwell said. "It will keep food fresh and your drink items cold."

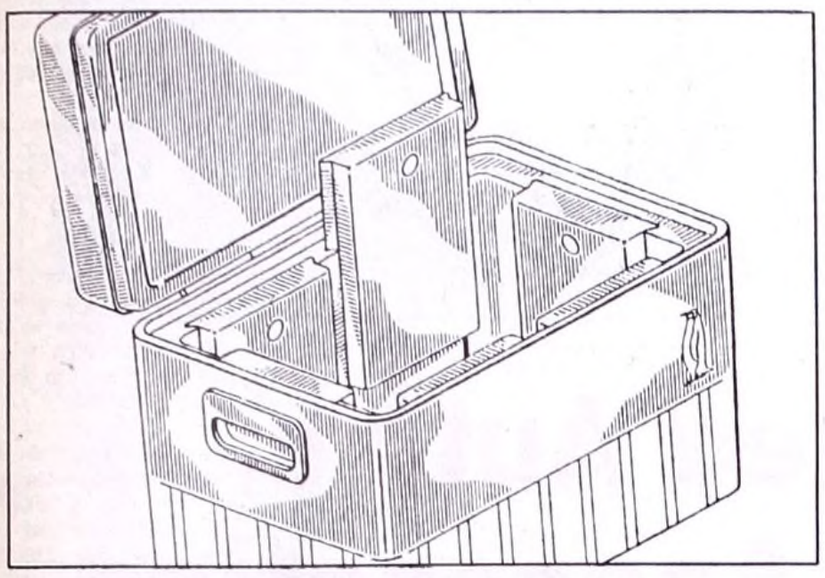

Blackwell, 30, said it was actually Morton who drew the design of the cooler as she explained how it should look. It took approximately two years to receive the patent.

"Our goal now is to market it and find a company who will make it," Morton said. "We're hoping to make enough from it to at least live comfortably."

Morton, 31, said the cooler could be available in all different sizes and colors. It will be up to the American Inventors Co. to find a manufacturer who would be interested in making and distributing the one-of-a-kind cooler.

Once a company takes up the idea, then the two women will be receiving plenty of royalties.

"I knew I was going to be rich as a little kid," Blackwell said. "I'm just being patient, but I know it's going to happen any day now."

Brenda L. Morton and Vicki Blackwell

Graffiti painting was not gang related - Zopff

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

A Wayne man who plead guilty to malicious destruction of property received two years probation last week in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court.

Andrew Zopff admitted to spray painting various buildings in the downtown business district of Wayne. Police caught Zopff in the act Sept. 2.

Zopff, 20, previously informed the Wayne Eagle that he knows what he did was wrong, and he is not going to commit the crime again.

"I also understand that I should have had permission to spray paint," Zopff said. "I would like to go straight and start a business with my art. All of this has been an awakening for me."

Although some of the symbols Zopff painted appear to be gang related, he said he is not a gang member, and the symbols are his own art designs.

"What I sprayed was not gang graffiti," Zopff said. "I am not in a gang, and I have never been part of a gang. I spray paint because I do it for the art. I do murals."

Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews said Zopff was responsible for thousands of dollars of miscellaneous destruction of property.

Board to vote on school goals

The Board of Education will vote Nov. 14 on the acceptance of a fina. report presented by the Plymouth-Canton Goals Committee.

A total of 47 community representatives meet with Dr. Joyce Fouts and Olga Moir from the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency to develop long and short term goals for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"They were all very dedicated in this endeavor," Moir told the Board of Education. "Despite the occasional differences of opinion, they all came together because they were all driven by the idea of student learning."

> They were all very dedicated in their endeavor. Despite the occasional differences of opinion, they all came together because they were all driven by the idea of student learning.
> - Olga Moir

The group met three times for a total of 12 hours and established three short-term goals involving communication, performance standards and development of long-term goals.

"This is not exclusive," said Moir, "but it is a start. The group had a bit of a hard time deciding on short-term goals."

The group also offered a few recommendations to implement each of the three goals. In order to communicate effectively, the group suggested the district televise board and Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO) meetings. They also advocated community satisfaction surveys and orientations for new families, just to name a few.

In order to design performance standards and hold educators responsible, the group suggested a learning committee be composed of all stake holders (parents, students, business and government representatives, and school officials) to review school policies and conduct.

The third short-term goal involved long range planning in the areas of: curriculum and instruction, class size, facilities, boundaries, finance, staff development, technologies, equity and community partnership.

"We felt a lot of this could begin this year, but not necessarily end here," said Moir.

Committee members indicated the goals can only be accomplished through a cooperative community effort. Although the board was in agreement, at least one board member was concerned about implementation.

"I suggest the superintendent and board discuss how we are going to implement these goals before we vote," said Trustee Roland Thomas, who condemned the idea of requiring people to attend board meetings.

"We can't drag people in here to talk with us," he said.
